By: Aaron B. Chapman aka Father Orion Starfire

This work is dedicated to the late Adolf Hitler,

May he rest in triumph!

In 1954 the renowned German author, Hans Grimm recounted that in 1928 Hitler told him;

“I know that some Man capable of giving our problems a final solution must appear. I have sought such a man. I could nowhere discover him. And that is why I have set myself to do the preparatory work [die Vorarbeit], only the most urgent preparatory work, for I know that I am myself not, the one. And I know also what is missing in me [to be the one]. But the other One still remains aloof, and nobody comes forward, and there is no more time to be lost.”

In 1987 Leni Riefenstahl recounted in her memoir a conversation she had with Hitler in 1937 at the Berghof:

“Do you believe in God?’ I asked, gazing at him directly. Hitler looked at me in surprise, then smiled and said: ‘Yes – I believe in a divine power, not in the dogmas of the Church, although I consider them necessary. I believe in God and in a divine destiny.’ He turned away then and, folding his hands, gazed into the distance. ‘And when the time is ripe, a new Messiah will come – he doesn’t have to be a Christian, but he will found a new religion that will change the world.’”

In 1936, Dr. Joseph Goebbels recount a prophecy in his work, Pictures from the life of the Führer, as if he already knew the German National socialist experiment would be cut short:

"In a hundred years time, perhaps, a great man will appear who may offer them [Aryans] a chance at salvation. He'll take me as a model, use my ideas, and follow the course I have charted."

Book One: The Aryan Manifesto

Introduction:

In the post-modern multicultural West, none can genuinely deny that the White race is dying and being replaced by swaths of all manner of foreign races, which have been allowed to invade our lands as if it is being done posthumously; as if we have already gone extinct and there is no need to ask our permission to live amongst us, to occupy our cities, and take over our systems of control. It is being done so brazenly and rapidly, it escapes the notice of only the most delusional or slow-witted of people, yet so many remain silent and complacent as they watch their own genocide unfolding before their eyes. We are forced to endure incessant anti-White propaganda campaigns targeting the native White demographic in every traditionally White nation and seem powerless to stop it. Many are so demoralized by the all-pervasive anti-White propaganda in our media and schools that they have been driven to self-hatred and actually believe the lies used to justify their own disenfranchisement and replacement. Many ask themselves, “how did it get like this?” and “why didn’t we stop it?”, knowing that once our people were the masters of the world, and now we aren’t even masters over our own lives. Those with eyes to see, now in hindsight recognize how our supposed “democratic” institutions were easily undermined when a certain ethnic group bought or swindled their way into our nations, initiating an ages-old plan to undermine White sovereignty, due to their tribe harboring a long-standing resentment against White Europeans and White diaspora.

This very tight nit and nepotistic conspiratorial ethnic group began to acquire a disproportionate amount of control over finance and mass media; incrementally they used this influence to promote the tenets of liberalism and secularism because they did not operate under the same traditional moral and religious codes as the White Europeans. As the poison of liberalism slowly corroded the traditional values of our civilization, more and more radical forms of cultural rebellion were promoted by their media, creating an astroturfed pop culture of degeneracy designed to destroy the foundations of our once healthy society, that being the family unit. They used their control of finance to bribe corrupt politicians to overturn our long-standing racial quotas and prohibition of inter-racial marriage, opening the floodgates on non-White immigration into all White countries. Then the mainstream media’s promotion of escapism, drug use, sexual deviancy, race mixing, and atheism, became so abysmal that people are tolerating behaviors that were considered horrible crimes only a generation previously such as pornography, prostitution, and even child grooming. We are expected to tolerate the sexual grooming of White children by deranged pedophilic homosexuals and non-Whites, we continually see a ballooning rate of racially motivated rape and murder of Whites by non-Whites being covered up by the media and our corrupt legal institutions, and anyone who speaks out about these blatant crimes and systemic double standards against Whites becomes a target of organized slander, character assassination, and other forms of institutionally supported persecutions.

This program of cultural-Marxism is an undeniably purposeful agenda to disenfranchise Whites in our own homelands by those who promoted these poisonous ideologies using their monopolistic control of the mass media and finance. This attack on our sovereignty as a race is monolithic, occurring not only in the White colonial lands but throughout Europe as well. The ultimate goal of this organized attack on Western Civilization is the total replacement and genocide of our people and a complete erasure of our true history upon this planet. The brown masses who come to occupy our civilization will never have to know the truth that it was stolen from us by a corrupt and truly evil, rootless international clique of gangsters masquerading as a minority religion called Judaism, but whose true religion is the only genuine form of Satanism that has ever existed. Albeit masquerading as many different cults throughout history, for the past several thousand years, those who call themselves the Jews are in fact the loyal servants of a truly malevolent demonic entity, what is commonly known as Satan, hence why they are referred to as the “Synagogue of Satan” by Christ Jesus in the New Testament.

All other versions of so-called Satanism are pathetic play dramas in comparison, and even those versions you will find a Jew behind them, such as the infamous “Church of Satan” founded by the Jew Anton LaVey. Then of course you have multiple crypto-Jewish front groups, as well as organizations such as the Freemasons and the Catholic church that were infiltrated by Jews, being transformed to serve their Satanic agenda. This tribe of Satanic liars and murderous gangsters have been a thorn in the side of the intrinsically honorable and altruistic White Aryans since time immemorial, their evil machinations always being discovered and thwarted in the end by the noble Aryans. For thousands of years, these demons have been driven out of our lands, so many times in fact that it’s difficult to present an accurate number; then as now, their agenda is to undermine our civilization while they parasitize off of it, and like any parasite allowed to infect their host for too long, they will eventually kill the host.

In only two generations since the Jews undermined our racial laws concerning immigration and naturalization, and since beginning their program of Cultural-Marxism in the West, the global population percentage of Whites has dropped from around 30% to realistically 6.5%. Likewise, due to the anti-family and sexual degeneracy propaganda being enforced in White countries our average birthrate has dropped to unsustainable levels, and even statistically impossible to reverse in some European nations. We are now the world minority and quickly becoming minorities in our own nations. No historical precedent exists that parallels our civilization's decline. Not once has a race or ethnicity so willingly committed altruistic suicide by simply allowing hordes of hostile races into their countries who have the intention of taking over and replacing the White population. This is the power of Jewish propaganda via mass media, which also has no parallel in history. Never before have whole populations been encouraged to occupy the majority of their free time staring like zombies at this marvel we call the television or computer screen, which is actually the most powerful brainwashing and mind control weapon ever created.

Hence the primary goal of saving our race from genocide and securing a future for White children requires that we break the Jewish mind control of our people. Many of us have already awakened to this menace like our ancestors did many times before us and seek to return to tradition, but returning to tradition is only a portion of the equation, as fundamental weaknesses within our traditional institutions had to exist in the first place and exploited by our eternal enemy for them to be undermined. Hence we need to establish new institutions that have identified these weaknesses and abandon the rotting carcass of our dead religions and government institutions. Aryanity has done this; it is a perennial Aryan doctrine composed of the intrinsic essence of our racial soul in archetypal form while being devoid of the weaknesses of universalism as well as tribalism found in traditional European religions. Aryanity is the first and only truly Pan-Aryan religion for all White Aryans and only White Aryans. Aryanity is the only thing that can save our dying people, for it is the only ideology that can unify the various competing factions within the White dissident movement. We must realize that all racially aware Whites must unite or we will surely perish as we rapidly lose control over our destiny as a people. Likewise, we must come to terms with the fact that our cherished institutions are now permanently corrupted, subverted, and actively working against our interests as a race. There will be no taking these institutions back, they must be abandoned entirely and we must focus our energy on building new institutions that are impervious to the corruption we have witnessed.

To learn more about Aryanity, one must read our Doctrine and our Forbidden History, but in this short manifesto, the Forbidden Destiny, we will describe a future where a united Aryan race, with a single monolithic cultural paradigm and religion, spreads throughout our realms, eventually reaching critical mass, correcting the course of our civilization's current decline, to eventually transform Western Civilization into a single Aryan Imperium. This Imperium, free from foreign corruption and parasitism, comprised of healthy and strong Aryan families, all working together toward the most ideal future for our posterity, may seem an impossible dream, but we already know how to make it come true. All it will take is for White dissidents to trust in our evolutionary destiny, and that this destiny has already been preordained by our Divine creator, who allowed our race to form, not by accident, but for a specific reason. We must trust in this reason, cease the pointless infighting, and continue to struggle, sacrifice, and fight for our children's future, just as our ancestors did so that we could exist.

Part One: Aryan Theocracy

-Foreword to Part One

The following is a simplified and condensed version of our vision for the future of the White Aryan race in diaspora. It outlines our theories concerning governance and economics in such a way that the average White Aryan can gain a basic understanding of our ideological underpinnings as Aryan Theocrats. We consider ourselves to be the farthest right and authoritarian as is possible on the political compass, but as has been commonly noted by political scientists, when one finds the absolute extremity of any corner of political theory there is often a horseshoe effect where traditionally defined terms such as "theocracy" and "socialism" can become compatible without any contradiction in terms. For this reason, we Aryans have broken the paradigm of right and left and advocate for a form of Theocratic Socialism, but it is also not accurate to call us "third position" as theocracy can't be placed in the center of the political compass.

Our brand of religio-racial socialism defies traditional political classification. Paradoxically, Aryan Theocracy is both rooted in ancient forms of governance and at the same time is completely new. One of the aspects of our governance theory that the post-modern reader will likely find the hardest to grasp is our advocacy of a multi-level overlapping state system where rules of conduct may be different for each level, because in the modern age of liberal democracies, rigid laws are expected to be enforced on every level of society, regardless of whether they are practical or efficient. In practice, these rigid expectations are never adhered to, and "democratic" elites often hypocritically bypass laws with impunity that they expect others to follow when they become a hindrance to their own efficient governance. In an authoritarian system, the elites of such a system are given license to do what is necessary to accomplish efficient governing without having to rely on pretense.

Historically theocratic and aristocratic systems were the most efficient where every level of society or social caste was expected to abide by the basic laws of the land but also had their own particular laws and customs. certain privileges were given to those who were predisposed to contribute the most to society as a whole. This system is perhaps the default setting of a naturally occurring and organic homogeneous hierarchical civilization, free from the cries of "equality" by unscrupulous men who desire more out of their life than their lot. The corrupt welfare socialism we see developing in the multicultural West is a good example of where this mentality of "equality" at all costs leads, where the lowest-value citizens of society are prioritized above the highest-value citizens, and the highest are fleeced by the ring leaders of this equality scam, with the support of the lowest. This type of communistic system logically results in a reduction in efficiency, creating a negative feedback loop affecting society as a whole. Such a system goes against the laws of natural hierarchy and is unsustainable, destined only to result in inevitable collapse, which there is already historical precedent to serve as an example.

Hence, Aryanity's multi-tier socialist caste system operates similarly to capitalism on the lowest level of society, with mercantilism in the middle levels, while being strictly socialistic at the top, where vows of poverty are required in exchange for positions of authority as a preventative measure against corruption. The socialist state being at the top in authority can order by decree that any level below it be subservient to its direction so that no level of society becomes unfairly exploited by the other, and where public servants are held to the highest standards. At the lowest and mid-levels, healthy competition is encouraged as long as the wages for labor are fair, and the highest quality products are produced for the consumer. Unnecessary luxuries cannot be promoted via psychologically manipulative marketing campaigns, and harmful products would be banned entirely in the ideal Theocratic Socialist state. Utilities and commodities would be strictly regulated or even nationalized so as not to become a source of leverage over the population by corrupt corporations or aristocrats, and wealth caps would be introduced limiting the amount of wealth a single person could possess and control in relation to their caste. Caste would be determined by both merit and genetics and be regulated by the clergy of the Theocratic state.

Another aspect of Aryan Theocracy that the reader will learn is the primary factor that distinguishes Aryan Theocracy from other pro-White socio-political ideologies and movements such as National Socialism or White Nationalism. We are often called "Nazis" because we use the swastika as our primary religious symbol and have canonized Adolf Hitler as an Aryan Saint, and we don't counter-signal this title as a pejorative because to us it is more of a compliment in comparison to the other sides of the post-modern political spectrum. But strictly speaking, we are not National-Socialists or Fascists as these were nationalistic movements designed to protect national borders and traditional ethnic cultures rather than, like Aryanity, being designed to protect the Aryan race as a whole by formulating an entirely new cultural paradigm upon the ruins of our failed cultural and political institutions, without regard to the ever-fluctuating borders of European countries and in recognition of how White colonial diaspora has permanently altered our identity as one Aryan race.

It is the ultimate goal of the Aryan Theocrat to abolish the old political borders of Europa and anywhere White Aryans hold a majority, while maintaining our cultural heritage, and forging the separate White Aryan ethnic states into a single unified Aryan Imperium, free of non-Aryan corruption. We have dubbed this future Empire the "Tertium Imperium" or "Third Empire", paying homage to the first and second empires of Pagan Rome, and Holy Rome. We Aryans see the legacy of Rome embedded in every aspect of White Aryan culture no matter if one's ancestors hailed from the Mediterranean, Western or Central Europe, the Balkans, the Slavic lands, or even Norway and Sweden. They are de facto Romans culturally speaking, due to the spread of Latin, archetypal Christianity, and its legacy; a legacy that is impossible to separate from the social fabric in spite of the institutional failures of Christendom. The attempt by Neo-Pagans in reviving their regional dead religions and rebuking their Christian ancestors is something we see as degenerative rather than regenerative toward our ultimate evolutionary goal as a race.

This idea of a "Western Imperium" did not originate with Aryanity but was simply expounded upon by us and technically classifies us as radical Pan-Aryans rather than, moderate Pan-Aryans (Aryan Federationists), or Nationalists, for we are Imperialists. Imperialism doesn't intrinsically imply that we seek a militant posture toward other Aryan ethnicities, but rather we advocate for a diplomatic or simply gradual natural unification of White Aryans under the single monolithic cultural, political, and religious movement of Aryanity, a passing away of the Old Order and the coming to prominence of the prophesied New Order under this new celestial age. Not a functional "New World Order" as the Semitic multicultural globalists have tried and failed to create under the auspices of Cultural Marxism and Zionism, but a truly genuine New Order for and by Aryans and Aryans alone, where our Forbidden Destiny as a race is ours to define!

-Aryan Theocratic Socialism

All of the greatest civilizations, the wondrous accomplishments of which have been admired throughout the ages, at their peak were theocracies. From ancient Sumer and the Vedic civilization to ancient Egypt, Greece, and Rome, then on to the Holy Roman Empire, all were theocracies ruled at their peak by deified kings and emperors who were both heads of state and the supreme religious authority. Rome may have started as a republic, but its glory was forged under the emperor Julius Caesar who was deified as “Divus Lulius” (the Divine Julius). After his death, the Roman Empire remained a de facto theocracy when his successor Augustus acquired the title of “Pontifex Maximus” (Highest Priest) becoming the supreme religious and state authority. This continued with subsequent emperors to the reign of Constantine who was Pontifex Maximus, the high priest of Sol Invictus (the supreme sun god). With the creation of the Catholic Church, he became Saint Constantine the Great and the papacy appropriated the title of Pontifex Maximus making an almost seamless transition from Roman Paganism to Christianity. Constantine was the first de facto pope of Rome, and Catholicism as an entity did not truly exist before him, though the Catholic church retroactively bestowed the title of pope on the various Orthodox patriarchs back to Peter to create the impression that they were the primitive church, which couldn't be further from the truth. But these actions created a very strong political entity, and the Catholic theocracy came to rule all of Europe for an age. Yet the glory of the Catholic Church is long over, its institutions infiltrated and permanently poisoned by corruption due to Catholicism's racial universalism and desire to convert Jewish demoniacs and sub-humans, which have come to outnumber the traditional European Catholic.

Theocracy is the ultimate authoritarian right-wing position, far more radical in scope than both Fascism and National Socialism. Whereas Socialism is the ultimate economic left-wing position. One may assume that these two aspects are contradictory but they are not and balance each other perfectly. Authoritarian governance by a clerical body does not contradict public ownership of industry or even monarchy as long as each worker, merchant, artisan, academic, soldier, and king submits to the cultural hegemony of the clerical state. This means several states can coexist simultaneously and even overlap territory if they are focused on specific aspects of social cohesion. One: the socialist economic or corporate state which is a combined effort between industry and the citizenry working in tandem, two: the hereditary aristocratic state, which is a combined effort between the aristocracy and the military working in tandem, and three:

a single clerical state which is the supreme governing authority with the power to intervene in any and all decisions within the realm to ensure obedience to divine law. The church works in tandem with the Divine Itself to preserve the holy destiny of the people.

Much historical precedent exists of highly successful systems of religious socialism, that is, socialism established and regulated on a foundation of religious principles. In fact, the Acts of the Apostles, although a Pauline text, makes it clear that the early Christians were practicing Religious Socialists. Acts 4:35 records that in the early church:

“no one claimed that any of their possessions was their own”

Religious Socialists share property and resources in such a way that it is beneficial to the religious community as a whole. This does not mean that everyone is given property or resources equally, or that hierarchy does not exist, this means that those who need or can utilize resources are allowed access to it without scruples. As was the case in National Socialist Germany, not even the lowest man lives in poverty in a functioning Socialist state, nor is any family homeless or forced to live in unsuitable conditions, and those with the greatest natural ability are given resources without scruples to be utilized for the benefit of society as a whole, yet not for their own personal ambitions or to hoard wealth; as long as they demonstrate results, people of great natural ability have access to resources regulated by the religious authority whom themselves take individual vows of poverty in ultimate service to the community. In this way are how the greatest of civilizations are built.

This brings us to what distinguishes “Aryan Theocratic Socialism” from older forms of religious socialism. As practicing Aryans and members of the Church of Aryanity we are not suggesting a revival of an ancient Christian or Pagan theocracy, but the development of a new one based on the esoteric and political principles derived from the philosophical movement of Aryanism and its resulting religion of Aryanity. We feel that political ideologies such as Fascism and National Socialism were simply prototypes of Aryanity and that the ultimate result of an uninterrupted NatSoc system in the Third Reich would have resulted in Aryan Theocratic Socialism, that is, a Socialist economic system, fused with a system of eugenic hereditary governance, under the authority of a new religion for all Aryans. This new religion was under development before the war as Positive Christianity, which was an archetypal Neo-Gnostic religious movement meant to cleanse and replace the institutions of Judaeo-Christianity, which were deemed by the Reich ideologues as “Negative Christianity”. Likewise, the hereditary new aristocracy was being bred under the authority of the HH and the Lebensborn program, which of course ended with the war.

Unfortunately, this new Aryan religion and aristocracy were subjected to arrested development due to the effects of the bloodiest war in human history waged against it, yet still, it was not uprooted and has sprouted anew even more resilient and more widespread than before. These roots spread for decades through underground channels developing into the various schools of esoteric nationalism, now coalescing and culminating as the only truly Pan-Aryan religion of Aryanity, which puts race first, and will never seek to proselytize non-Aryans nor divide us by obsolete regional ethnicity or dead religions. For a nation is a people, not a place, and white Aryans are visibly, culturally, and genetically one people. Before the colonial era, as white Aryans, we were unaware of our status collectively as a unique people distinguishable and separate from the other “human” races. Now that we have this complete understanding we must adapt our perspective and not cling to that which has become obsolete, especially in light of the threats we face to our very existence as a race.

As stated above, the Aryan Theocratic Socialist system would be a state arranged with five tiers, but four cooperatives. Each tier of the system would be required to cooperate with the one above and below them, with the Clergy being the highest tier, they would form a cooperative with the Aristocracy below them, which would be called the 1st caste. Then Aristocracy would form the second cooperative forming the 2nd caste with the Military. The Military would form the next cooperative and form the 3rd caste with the Industrialists. And finally, the Industrialists would form a cooperative with the Citizenry (laborers, artisans, and merchants) thus forming the 4th caste. These four castes of cooperatives would be allowed to intermarry within, up, or down their respective caste but never would they be allowed to jump a caste. For instance, someone from the citizenry could marry up into an Industrialist family, but not into a Military family. Likewise, a member of the Aristocracy could take a vow of poverty and marry into a Clerical family, but not marry down into an Industrialist family.

ARYAN THEOCRACY

LAYERS OF THE THEOCRATIC STATE

THE CLERICAL BODY OF THE CHURCH TAKE INDIVIDUAL VOWS OF POVERTY AND THEREFORE OWN NO PROPERTY. ALL PROPERTY AND WEALTH BELONGS TO THE CHURCH AS A WHOLE AND IS THUS MANAGED AND DISTRIBUTED BY THE CHURCH TO FURTHER THE INTERESTS OF THE CHURCH AS A WHOLE WITH THE SUPREME GOAL OF PRESERVING THE ARYAN RACE AND OUR EVOLUTIONARY DESTINY. BENEATH THE CLERGY ARE THE ARISTOCRACY WHO CARRY OUT ORDERS FROM THE CHURCH AND ARE CHOSEN BY THE CHURCH ACCORDING TO THEIR MERIT. BELOW THE ARISTOCRACY ARE THE MILITARY WHO DUTIFULLY CARRY OUT ORDERS FROM THE CHURCH BY PROXY OF THE ARISTOCRACY, THOUGH THE ARISTOCRACY CAN BE OVERRULED BY THE CLERGY AND DIRECTLY GOVERNED BY CLERICAL DECREE. INDUSTRY IS REGULATED BY THE ARISTOCRACY, BUT CAN LIKEWISE BE DIRECTLY GOVERNED BY CLERICAL DECREE. INDUSTRY OPERATES WITH THE SUPREME GOAL OF PROVIDING GOODS TO THE MILITARY AND A LIVING STANDARD FOR THE CITIZENRY.

-Aryan Theocratic Imperialism

As Aryans, we are not nationalistic in the sense that we cling to any particular regional ethnic identity as we see this as an inferior and obsolete understanding of racial identity. We do not counter-signal any White Aryans who wish to preserve their unique cultural nuances or language, but we see that being hyper-focused on regional identity or cultural nuance as the highest possible form of identity politics is a flawed and outmoded belief system. Hence we reject the tenets of Nordicism which put the stereotypical “Nordic” phenotype on a pedestal above other Aryan phenotypes such as the Celtic, Romanic, Baltic, or Slavic phenotypes. Within all Aryan populations, you can find each phenotype, even within families. In Northern Europe, you simply have a higher percentage of the population which have blond hair and blue eyes. Of course, the beauty of this particular phenotype should be preserved but not at the expense of other Aryan phenotypes. It is, in fact, the stereotypical Celtic phenotype of red hair and green eyes which is the rarest and is also strikingly beautiful.

As practicing Aryans we recognize the truth that White Aryans did not originate in Europa and therefore we have been in diaspora much longer than what is commonly accepted. It was European diaspora that allowed White Aryan people to discover our true identity as one race with a single evolutionary destiny. During the colonial period, our colonial ancestors explored the world spreading our great people to the four corners of the earth, we began to realize that cultural and genetic differences between the various “White” ethnicities were insignificant in contrast to the magnificent differences between Whites and non-Whites. The great history of our people spans thousands of years on every continent and is inexorably intertwined. Those of Germanic and Slavic descent have just as much right to claim ancient Rome as their cultural heritage as those of Mediterranean descent, and even further back the cultural heritage of all White Aryans descends from Ancient Greece, Sumer, Persia, India, and Egypt, then on to ancient Atlantis and Hyperborea.

It is our destiny to reclaim our birthright not only to our ancestral lands but also to our sovereignty as a single unified people not subjected to foreign rule. This will not happen until all White Aryans unite under a single religion, Aryanity. As Europa is invaded by hordes of darklings, we must end the religious infighting and our racially aware folk must accept and embrace a single creed that puts our racial survival above any universal or humanistic notions of previous false religions. Likewise, we cannot attempt to revive regional dead religions which exclude any ethnicity of the greater Aryan people. Our evolution into this great form is an expression of the will of The Divine Mind (Omnis) and our own souls, to deny it as a reality is pathological and an abomination. Therefore we must throw off the yoke of both universalist and ethnic politics/religion to embrace pan-Aryan racialistic religion and politics. The Nordic, Baltic, Slavic, Celtic, Dinaric, and Romanic western White Aryan peoples must unify under a single banner, for truly we are one people. Our race is our nation, our race must be our religion, and no archetype can unify us like the solar Christ archetype for he has come and been expressed in every ancient Aryan cultural mythos. We are the People of the Sun, and the Sun God is solely the symbol of the Aryan race. We must turn to him with the proper understanding of his nature if we are to unify our people, and we must unify our people if we hope to defend ourselves from the constant onslaught of hostile non-White races whose agenda it is to rob us of our birthright.

Hence we come to why as practicing Aryans we must advocate for Aryan Imperialism rather than White Nationalism. Only a single monolithic imperial state can maintain the security of our existence as a race and the homogeneity of our culture long term. There is much historical precedent to serve as evidence that Empires last much longer than small nation-states. The historical record is full of nation-states being overwhelmed by empires. As White Aryans in the post-modern era, the majority of Westerners speak English as the Western lingua franca, this fact alone shows that we already exist in a de facto cultural imperium. Likewise, there is more or less freedom of travel between the borders of western nation-states, this is in part due to the poisonous program of globalism, but it can also serve our purposes as Aryan Imperialists. We can transform the program against us into one that ultimately serves our evolutionary interests. The first phase of the Aryan Imperialist agenda is to implant our theocratic ideology (Aryanity) in every Western nation where White Aryans are the founding stock. Our temples must spread either openly or clandestinely until Aryanity has become firmly rooted in the soil of our traditional homelands.

Once critical mass has been achieved, practicing Aryans will naturally infiltrate more and more positions of authority and practice nepotism with fellow Aryans, though openly being Aryan will surely be met with great opposition by the hostile forces of darkness now commanded by the Maledictan Jews. It will take enduring much persecution, many battles, and painful martyrdom for us to take back what is rightfully ours. Nothing is achieved or maintained in this world without struggle, we must let our struggle define us and our vision of the future guide us. We must set our sights very far into the future so that every action we take in the present moves us closer to our ultimate goal. The goal at present is simply the survival of our race at all costs, even if it takes abandoning our most cherished institutions that have abandoned us and have not only failed to protect our sovereignty but actively work with our enemies to destroy us.

To understand how we came to this point we must have access to our true history, for this reason, the Forbidden History was written so that all White Aryans would have access to the truth of our history, rather than being disconnected from it by the lies of the Maledictans. Likewise, we must know our true history to chart a proper course into the future. The racial soul of our people has been guided by the Divine hand since before recorded history, only those who know their past can understand our racial destiny as pointing toward a particular direction. It has always been the goal of our ancient forebears to conquer their environment, but more importantly, ancient Aryans realized that to conquer the world we must also conquer our lower animal selves. There are many of us that refuse to do this and wallow in degeneracy. They teach their children to disobey hierarchy due to their egoism and live empty, shallow lives only for the pursuit of pleasure. They are the first that must be conquered, though it seems that enemy races are doing this work for us, by allowing our genetically weak stragglers to take themselves out of the gene pool.

Part Two: Racial Holy War

-Foreword to Part Two

As we argue in the Doctrine of Aryanity, the grassroots and clandestine philosophical and religious movements of Aryanism and Ariosophy have developed over the previous centuries into a bonafide religious movement, which has been canonized into the religion of Aryanity. This religion has its own mythos, ethos, heroes, prophets, martyrs, and saints. And like other religions, it also has its own apocalyptic tradition not dissimilar to the apocalyptic traditions of other religions, such as the battle of Armageddon of the Christians, the Ragnarok of the Norse Pagans, or the coming of the Mahdi and Jihad in Islam. Even the Buddhists and Hindus have an apocalyptic tradition that shares a striking resemblance to western apocalyptic traditions, which describes the coming of a great warrior priest-king that is prophesied to inaugurate a new golden age.

This holy warlord whom the Buddhists and Hindus call Maitreya and Kalki respectively are both depicted in art and literature as equestrians wielding a sharp sword, not unlike the description of the second coming of Christ and the Mahdi. Whether these descriptions are to be taken literally or figuratively is something that the practitioners of these religions must decide, but within the perennial religion of Aryanity, we take these descriptions as archetypal metaphors passed down throughout the ages, appearing in different religions that were directly or in part inspired by Aryan religious teachings.

Not unlike these other religions, the idea of the Racial Holy War, often shortened to the term “RaHoWa”, is integral to the theology of post-modern White Aryans. The term was originally coined by the Creativity Movement, which was one of many pseudo-religious prototype factions that sprang forth from the philosophical movement of Aryanism. Albeit unsuccessful in creating a bonafide religion in part due to their denial of divinity and traditional religious wisdom combined with government repression, Creativity was successful in coining this term which has now become a common part of the Aryan nomenclature, which has built upon the already preexisting notion of the “Western Imperium”.

It has been the belief expressed by many White Aryan prophets that the deliberate demographic replacement of our race within our traditional lands by the Maledictans can only result in an inevitable racial civil war as anti-White policies are implemented and racial conflict continues to rise. Within the Aryan Church, we recognize that we have now gone beyond the point of no return, where our demographic genocide cannot be reversed by utilizing traditional systemic measures; rather as our civilization continues to deteriorate, average White Aryans will be forced to take radical defensive postures to survive, while our youth will be drawn to what has been termed “extremist” narratives as they suffer alienation and disenfranchisement within the nations their forefathers built for them and them alone.

This civilizational cycle and its inevitable outcome have been witnessed before, albeit never on such a grand scale, or the targeted population being so complacent to their destruction, but extensive historical precedent exists to determine what results when an advanced civilization built by White Aryans is incrementally invaded by low IQ subhuman races. One need only study the Forbidden History of ancient Babylon, Egypt, and Rome to determine what happens during an internal cultural clash after the integrity and homogeneity of a White Aryan civilization is debased by the abundant presence of races that are closer to the animal kingdom than to us.

Multi-racial empires have always failed due to this endless internal conflict, and when they collapse under the weight of their own hubris they collapse into widespread civil war, famine, and cultural collapse followed by a long dark age of ignorance. The phrase, “history repeats” may seem trite, but it is a very valid axiom when applying the lessons of history to our lives. Like an algorithm of prophecy, when one witness the same or similar events occurring in the order of multiple past events that had the same or similar results, it is only rational to conclude that the present set of circumstances will also have the same or similar results. It is simple pattern recognition.

Thus, prophecy for a historian is no more complex than $a+b=c$, yet in our current cycle, there are multiple x factors that could multiply the coming collapse by many standard deviations. One of these x factors is the exponential rise of the largest world population humankind has ever witnessed, and by a factor of around thirty-five compared to when the Roman Empire collapsed; likewise, another x factor is the existence of weapons of mass destruction, which will most assuredly be used when the opportunity arises. While there are always uncertainties in any situation due to the existence of an infinitude of warp and weft lines affected by free will, one thing that is certain is that the cultural and civilizational collapse is coming, and when it comes it will be the most monolithic die off of humankind the world has ever witnessed.

As White Aryans, it is not only our right, but also our duty to prepare for this eventuality and to survive it, just as it was our ancestors' duty to prepare, struggle, sacrifice, and die for us to exist. We honor our ancestors' memory and their sacrifices by making our own so that our children's children can have a future, preferably one where they are free to pursue their destiny as Aryans. Knowing this, that our ancestors went through similar turmoil truly means that we have always been fighting a racial holy war, and perhaps that is what evolution actually is; a literal biological holy war for racial supremacy upon this world where one chosen “race” will eventually reach the finish line and become the undisputed master race.

-The Threefold Prophesied Saviors

The prophecies of Kalki, Christos, and Balder all three have extremely fantastical descriptions of their appearance at the final battle between good and evil, that if taken literally leave one believing in all manner of improbable things, events, and timelines. All three traditions mentioned are filled with fantastical and cryptic myths like chimeric beasts, giants who live tens of thousands of years and dates so far in the future they couldn't possibly be relevant today. Or can they? Those who have wisdom realize that what is written in these prophecies are allegorical mystery traditions that can only be decoded by those who possess the key to unlocking the mysteries of the text. This key is what the ancient Vedic Aryans called Jnana and Greek sages called Gnosis. Gnosis begins with questioning. Why is it that the prophecies of several Aryan religions depict the return of a great king, who is not subservient to the powers of the world, a “king of kings”, who is depicted as an equestrian, wielding a sharp sword or spear, to slay the lower nations?

-Vedic

In the Hindu Puranas, the great Kalki is depicted riding upon a White Horse, wielding a sharp sword, which he uses to wage war against and kill the non-Aryans and lower castes (Dalits and Mlecchas) and the evil demons who control them (Kali and the twin demons). The Kalki is said to come at the end of the age of Kali Yuga to inaugurate the new age of the Satya Yuga. Likewise in Revelations, the Christos is also depicted riding upon a white horse, also wielding a sharp sword, which he uses to “smite the nations” (the Greek word for nations is “ethne” or race). Christos is depicted as returning at the “end of the age” (not the end of the world as commonly believed), to bring about a new millennial age where righteousness reigns supreme upon the earth, but only after a monumental holy war waged against Satan and his “nations”, ie ethnicities.

In various Buddhist texts both the Kalki are mentioned and another savior archetype called Maitreya, who is said to be the next Buddha, but which scholars identify as the Buddhist version of the Hindu Kalki. Both are said to come from Shambala, which resides high up in the mountains hidden in the clouds, yet some religious scholars claim that Shambala is not a place per se, but an ethereal city. Likewise, many occultists have a different interpretation that Shambala is an airborne city that can travel from place to place, but whose main docking location is within the hollow earth. Parallel to the Shambala prophecy, in biblical texts the return of Christos is also said to be “coming with the clouds”, and the holy city is even depicted descending from the sky. Scholars maintain that the prophecy of Maitreya was inspired by the Rigvedic Mitra, which is the Hindu equivalent of the Persian sun god Mithra. In the Persian tradition, Mithra is the savior archetype and the god of war, and his cult was still influential in the Roman empire as Mithras during the time of Christ Jesus.

Mithras was often depicted on horseback, with a sword, or riding behind a chariot drawn by four horses, perhaps a parallel for the four horsemen of the apocalypse in the Christian tradition. In Persia, the swastika was actually known as “the chariot of Mithra” because of its four arms and has been recognized since ancient times as the most important holy symbol by both eastern and western Aryans due to its association with the sun god, which is the tutelary deity of all Aryans. Like Mithra, the Greek sun god Apollo was depicted riding in a chariot drawn by four horses, with a swastika on his chest, called the gammadion by the Greeks. Likewise, the Swastika was used throughout pagan Europe as a solar symbol and was even used by early Christians to mark the graves of martyrs and in Christian art long before they adopted the cross as their primary symbol.

One of the three saviors recognized as an archetype of the Christos is Balder the son of Odin, the All Father. One may assume that there are too many differences between the Norse archetype of the “All Father” Odin and Balder and “Our Father” and the Christos, because the Father archetype is the one who is crucified and pierced in the side with a spear, while his son Balder’s birth is celebrated on the Winter Solstice or Yule. Yet as it is stated in the gospels, “I and the Father are one” (John 10:30) which shows how these archetypes can be paradoxically switched because one is associated with the sky and the other with the sun, which is a part of the sky. In the epic story of Ragnarok, Balder is one of the few gods to survive the war while his father Odin is vanquished. And the reason Balder survived the war of the gods is that he stays in the underworld, the realm of Hel. After the war he comes back to life, echoing yet again the story of Christos descending into the underworld before the resurrection. We see this as the father surviving through the son just as Osiris survived through the line of Pharaohs starting with Horus, thus revealing the mystery of reincarnation and the incarnation of ascended masters.

As with the other archetypal sky/sun god combinations such as Osiris and Horus, Our Father and his son Christos, and the All Father and his son Balder, we see the prophetic visions of and final battle between righteousness and evil as a striking parallel that is too similar to be mere coincidence. Other parallels exist such as the crucifixion of Odin and the loss of his one eye symbolizing the sun and the moon, just as Horus has one eye, and Christos even spoke of the light of the single eye (Matthew 6:22). Likewise Odin comes as an equestrian in the final battle just as the other savior archetypes at the final battle riding upon a horse that has eight legs named Sleipnir. The eight-legged horse is an obvious allegory, and perhaps the four extra legs are an echo of the number four found in other myths of the four horsemen, the four horses pulling the chariot of Mithra, etc which is derived from symbolism of the swastika and its four arms; the swastika was often found with ancient art depicting Odin and Balder, just as it was with the other solar archetypes. Balder is also depicted as having a horse named Léttfeti (Light foot)

Yet one aspect that seems to divert slightly about the story of Ragnarok is that Odin is wielding a spear called Gungnir instead of a sword, but what is interesting about his spear is that in certain poems it has incantations and words of power written on its shaft, which is where its power is derived. Likewise, ancient Germanic spears have been found with the “fylfot” (Germanic word for swastika) carved in the spearhead. This brings to mind the spear of destiny which pierced the side of Christ on the crucifix, a myth echoed in the Eddas when Wotan is pierced in the side with his own spear while he is crucified on the world tree. So anyone with discernment can see that Ragnarok or Götterdämmerung is simply another archetypal rendering of the prophetic final battle between good and evil, the result of which is the birth of a completely different race of Humankind, for the only humans to survive are a man and woman similar to the Adam and Eve mythos, who survive by taking refuge in the forest. The population bottleneck and the prophecies of Blavatsky concerning the fifth sub-race of Aryans come to mind.

Another aspect of Norse mythology that seems allegorically racial is the fact that Balder’s name descends from the Aryan root word “bhel” which means “White”. He was called the “Shining One” which is a term used in other Aryan cultures from the Celtic Sidhe to the East Aryan Siddha. Likewise, the Shining Ones are mentioned in both the Biblical texts and the Sumerian epics as a title for the Elohim or the Anunnaki, which Aryanity argues is an ethnological term for fair skin. Also, the depiction of Heimdall as the “whitest” of the gods shows the importance of racial characteristics. It is often assumed that the Norse culture was isolated from contact with other races and the Maledictans specifically, and this simply isn’t true as the Rus’ vikings traveled to Africa and Asia and this seems to be reflected in Norse mythology. The existence of black elves and light elves seems ethnological, and although these elves are depicted as living in different realms they did not care for each other.

The light elves were connected to the Vanir gods, Frey and Freya, and were ethereal and beautiful like fairies, ie the fair folk known for their extremely fair complexion. Their magic was that they could see fate, like the Norn witches. They came from Vanheim and live in Asgard in a place called Alfheim, where Frey is king. Freya the queen has the help of the Valkyries to take fallen warriors from Midgard to Valhalla or Folkvang. The black elves were short and ugly, they were mean, greedy, and not to be trusted, and they used black magic. Their home, Svartalfheim, was another realm, closer to the underworld, and Loki the trickster, Jotunheim, Hel, icy Niflheim, and fiery Muspelheim. Svartalfheim is also called Nidavelir or Mörkheim, the “dark world”. So there is a relationship between these “black elves” and Loki who is actually not of the same race as the Aesir and Vanir gods but the offspring of a primordial race not unlike the titans of Greek mythos. He is known for being greedy, a master liar, and a murderer not unlike the Maledictans. He even killed Balder by proxy of using another god who was blind, similar to how the Jews killed Christ by proxy using the Romans. Could it be that the tales of the Norse did in fact reflect the ancient war between the Maledictans and the Aryans?

The Norse religion even has ancient primordials similar to the Gnostic emanations of the Monad or what in Aryanity we call Omnis. In ancient Norse mythos there is the Orlog, which is not a deity so much as an imperceptible cosmic law, which existed before the creation of the material universe. In the Norse creation myth, fire and ice meet and the beginnings of creation spring forth. This shows that the law of duality must exist in the material world as a prerequisite, just as it has been demonstrated in various other esoteric traditions that use other forms of duality such as the divine feminine and divine masculine to demonstrate the nature of duality. The Orlog is the singularity, aka Omnis, or the Monad. It is not clear that the Orlog emanates creation but It (Orlog) exists before fire and ice, which implies it. Fire and ice continues the process of emanations of the first of creation, the most ancient of which was Ymir whose “body” or perhaps essence for lack of a better term, was used to create the material world and can be seen as a possible Demiurgic and Saturnine parallel. This same archetypal story is an echo of even older Aryan Pagan mythos such as the myths of the Greek Titans and older primordial deities like Nyx and Erubus being born of Chaos, and the Egyptian Ogdoad springing from the primordial waters of Chaos personified as the God Nu, who is said to have been self-created.

-Gnostic

Within the Aryan Church, we maintain that the three prophesied saviors known as Kalki (also Maitreya or the Buddhist Mithra), Wotan (also Odin), and Christos are actually one and the same, and describe an archetypal savior prophesied by Aryan traditions in different times and places. In the gospels, we were told by Christ Jesus to watch for “the signs of the times” (Matthew 24), and as it is written we have come to “the end of the age” (Matthew 24 / Revelation 7,11), following the instruction of Christ Jesus the true disciples of Christos have followed “the man bearing the pitcher of water...into the house which he enters” (Mark 14:13, Luke 22:10), this is an allusion to the astrological house of Aquarius, the water bearer. The Kali Yuga is not as long as it has been depicted, the unbelievably long time period until Satya Yuga was a purposeful misdirection to hide the cyclical return of the sun god avatar Kalki, ie Christos, ie Wotan who incarnates into a different form every celestial age, marked by the passing of the sun over the ecliptic into a new “house”. And as it is written in Revelation 19, Christos is prophesied to return on a “white horse” wielding a “sharp sword” to smite evil. But interestingly this sword comes from his mouth! An obvious allegorical reference that will be described later.

Mithra killed the bull at the end of the age of Taurus in the third millennium BC inauguration of the age of Ari-es (Noble the god of war), ie the age of Ary-an (Noble people) expansion, starting from the region of Mount Ara-rat (Noble land) spreading out in all directions. The name Mithra is derived from the ancient Proto-Aryan word meaning “to bind” and preserved in the Persian language as the word for oath or covenant which is reflected in the Old Testament book of Genesis, which we know to simply be a distorted retelling of the Sumerian epics. The old Norse religion stems from this migration, and is why the sacred mead of Odin is drunk from the bull's horn; this reflects the ancient source of Wotan to the killing of the bull at the age of Taurus, which is echoed in the story of the killing of Ymir (Saturn) who suckled from the primeval cow. The Age of classical Aryan expansion was complete by the first century BC which brought us to the Piscean age, with the appearance of a new solar avatar, Christ Jesus, whose parable is the fisher of men, whose symbol is the fish. More than any other religion Christianity was responsible for our race circumnavigating the globe in the misguided, yet necessary quest to spread Christianity to the savage races. Now in the twenty-first century, as the sun moves into the house of Aquarius, our race in diaspora needs a new solar Aryan avatar, his parable is the parable of the clean vessel, which overflows, filling and cleansing the vessels beneath him, which fill and cleanse the vessels beneath them, and so on. His symbol is the clean cup, which symbolizes the body of an Aryan, which receives the purifying spirit of the primordial first cause, Omnis.

-Ancient Prophecies of RaHoWa

Within the Aryan Church we view the various prophecies of the returning avatars of Vishnu/Kalki, Our Father/Christos, and All Father/Balder as not only depictions of righteousness fighting a holy war against evil, we view these prophecies through a racial lens just as we believe those who wrote them did. The traditions of Hinduism and Buddhism, Christianity, and Wotanism are Aryan and even separated by vast time and space managed to preserve the archetypal teachings of the Prisca Theologia. These ancient prophecies are not just depicting holy wars, they are depicting Racial Holy War! To demonstrate this fact we have gathered quotes from the various holy texts and oral prophecies from the Vedas to the Apocalypses to the Eddas. With the proper racial Gnosis, it becomes apparent that what our ancestors foresaw was the massive global racial conflict that becomes ever more apparent to be an inevitable consequence of the current war on "Whiteness".

Vedic:

Bhagavata Purana (12.2.19-20) States "Lord Kalki, the Lord of the universe, will mount His swift horse Devadatta ("Milk white" horse given as a gift from Shiva) and, sword in hand, travel over the earth exhibiting His eight mystic opulences and eight special qualities of Godhead. Displaying His unequalled effulgence and riding with great speed, He will kill by the millions those thieves who have dared dress as kings (Maledictans)."

Agni Purana (16.7-9) explains that when "Non-Aryans in the form of kings would devour men who wear the costumes of righteousness and have a taste for unrighteous thing (Jewish ritual murder). Kalki...would destroy the non-Aryans, holding the astra (nuclear weapon?) and having a weapon. He would establish moral law in four-fold varnas (four classes/castes based on racial purity) in the suitable manner. The people (would be) in the path of righteousness in all the stages of life"

Padma Purana (6.71.279-280) relates that Lord Kalki "will end the Kali Yuga (our current age) and will kill all the wicked mlecchas (non-Aryans) and, thus, destroy the bad conditions of the world. He will gather all of the distinguished Brahmans (wise men), and will propound the highest truth."

Vishnu Purana (4.24.26-28) states that Kalki "will then reestablish righteousness upon earth; and the minds of those who live at the end of the Kali age shall be awakened, and shall be as pellucid as crystal. The men who are thus changed by virtue of that peculiar time shall be as the seeds of human beings, and shall give birth to a race (5th Aryan sub-race as prophesied by Blavatsky) who shall follow the laws of the Krita age, the Age of Purity. As it is said, "When the Sun and Moon, and the lunar asterism Tishya (Cancer), and the planet Jupiter, are in one mansion, the Krita age shall return."

Buddhist:

The Shambala Warrior Prophecy (Tb Buddhist 700AD) "The banner of Shambala shall encircle the central lands of the Blessed One. Those who accept him shall rejoice, and those who deny him shall tremble. The decriers shall be given over to justice and shall be forgotten. The warriors shall march under the banner of Maitreya."

The Shambala Warrior Prophecy (Tb Buddhist 700AD) “Drought, famine, disease and war will sweep the world. Nation will fight nations, and the larger will devour the smaller.”

The Shambala Warrior Prophecy (Tb Buddhist 700AD) “People will no longer have any religion to which they can turn for solace or liberation: the doctrines of materialism will overwhelm their minds and drive them to struggle for their own selfish ends. The lust for power and wealth will prevail over teachings of compassion and truth”

Maitreyavarakarana “The tall and large human body, plump, white, and handsome, is a vessel made of the seven treasures” (proof that the Maitreya prophecies are racial)

Anagatavamsa “Then the venerable Sariputta questioned the Lord about the future conqueror (Maitreya will be a war lord), “The Hero that shall follow you, The Buddha – of what sort will he be?”

Padmasambhava “The signs of these times are new and fantastical modes of dressing – traditional styles forgotten.” (cross-dressing)

Padmasambhava “The arrogant elevate profanity (negro rappers). The proletariat rules the kingdom (communism); kings become paupers; the butchers and murderers become leaders of men; unscrupulous self seekers rise to high position.”

Padmasambhava “Drunkards preach the path to Salvation. Guileful impostors claim psychic powers (false prophets). False doctrines are devised from the Buddha's Word and the teachers' interpretations become self-vindications (“New Age”) Ideas are established contrary to traditions.”

Padmasambhava “Famine, frost and hail govern many unproductive years.. release[ing] diseases, horrible epidemics and plagues which spread like wildfire, striking men and cattle.”

Padmasambhava “No rain falls in season, but out of season; the valleys are flooded.”

Padmasambhava “Earthquakes bring sudden floods, while fire storms and tornadoes destroy temples, stupas and cities in an instant.”

Norse:

THE PROSE EDDA Chapter 16: Ragnarok “...here are three other winters, during which great wars rage over all the world. Brothers slay each other for the sake of gain (brother wars), and no one spares his father or mother in that manslaughter and adultery. Thus says the Vala's Prophecy: Brothers will fight together (biblical parallel) And become each other's bane; Sisters' children Their sib shall spoil. Hard is the world, Sensual sins grow huge. There are ax-ages, sword-ages— Shields are cleft in twain (no defense from mighty new weapons),— There are wind-ages (gun powder), wolf-ages (weapons of mass destruction), Ere the world falls dead. Then happens what will seem a great miracle, that the wolf devours the sun, and this will seem a great loss. The other wolf will devour the moon, and this too will cause great mischief (Nuclear war). The stars shall be hurled from heaven (Biblical parallel). Then it shall come to pass that the earth and the mountains will shake so violently that trees will be torn up by the roots, the mountains will topple down (biblical parallel), and all bonds and fetters will be broken and snapped.”

THE PROSE EDDA Chapter 16: Ragnarok “A ship comes from the east (China?), The host of Muspel Come o'er the main. And Loki is steersman. All the fell powers Are with the wolf; Along with them Is Byleist's brother. From the south comes Surt With blazing fire-brand (nuclear weapons?),— The sun of the war-god Shines from his sword. Mountains dash together, Giant maids are frightened, Heroes go the way to Hel (Bunkers?), And heaven is rent in twain.”

THE PROSE EDDA Chapter 16: Ragnarok “All men Abandon their homesteads When the warder of Midgard In wrath slays the serpent. The sun grows dark, The earth sinks into the sea, The bright stars From heaven vanish (Biblical parallel); Fire rages, Heat blazes, And high flames play (nuclear fire?) 'Gainst heaven itself. And again it is said as follows: Vigrid is the name of the plain Where in fight shall meet Surt and the gentle god. A hundred miles (blast radius?) It is every way (roughly the size of occupied Palestine). This field is marked out for them (field of Megiddo ie Armageddon?)”

THE PROSE EDDA Chapter 17: Regeneration “A hall I know standing Far from the sun On the strand of dead bodies. Drops of venom Fall through the loop-holes (Lawfare). Of serpents' backs The hall is made. There shall wade Through heavy streams Perjurers And murderers (Maledictans).”

THE PROSE EDDA Chapter 17: Regeneration “In a place called Hodmimer's-hold are concealed two persons during Surt's fire (nuclear fire?), called Lif and Lifthraser. They feed on the morning dew. From these so numerous a race is descended that they fill the whole world with people, as is here said: Lif and Lifthraser Will lie hid In Hodmimer's-holt. The morning dew They have for food. From them are the races descended. But what will seem wonderful to you is that the sun has brought forth a daughter not less fair than herself, and she rides in the heavenly course of her mother, as is here said: A daughter Is born of the sun” (New solar age)

Biblical:

Matthew 24.3-15

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

3 Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to Him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will these things be? And what will be the sign of Your coming, and of the end of the age?” 4 And Jesus answered and said to them: “Take heed that no one deceives you. 5 For many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am the Christ,’ and will deceive many. 6 And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars (Edda Parallel). See that you are not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. 7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in various places (Edda Parallel). 8 All these are the beginning of sorrows. 9 “Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name’s sake (namesake is also a term for one who is named after another. ie the new Christos/Kalki/Wotan). 10 And then many will be offended (liberal snowflakes), will betray one another (race traitors), and will hate one another. 11 Then many false prophets will rise up and deceive many (new age movement). 12 And because lawlessness will abound, the love of many will grow cold. 13 But he who endures to the end shall be saved. 14 And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached in all the world as a witness to all the nations, and then the end will come.

Revelations (19.11-16) “And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns (many names); and he had a name written, but no man knew but he himself (Omnis). And he was clothed with a “vesture dipped in blood: and his name is called The Word of God. And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean. And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God.

Revelations (19.19-21) And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS. And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army. And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshiped his image were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone. And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat on the horse.”

Revelations (19.15) “And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean. And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations”

The secret:

“Clothed in fine linen, white and clean”

Early Gnostics called their bodies “clothing” for the soul, and used this as an allegory for their belief in reincarnation being no different than changing out ones soiled clothes.

“Out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that will smite the nations”

The word “nations” in the original Greek texts of revelation is “ethne” or race. And the sword from his mouth is the Verbo or Logos, the killing words s-word=word-s. For as Edward Bulwer-Lytton, author of Vril, the Coming Race stated, “the pen is mightier than the sword”. It is for this reason that the seal for the esoteric order of Aryanity, OMTO, displays the black-handled sword crossed by the quill pen. The mighty weapon of the threefold savior is not actually a sharp bejeweled sword, but rather this is an allegory for the “Word of God” (Logos), or as in the Vedic tradition the potential energy which Brahman used to create the cosmos by speaking the word “Om”. The word of God (Omnis) has been spoken, and as before the Word was God. It will smite the Nations (races), and the “end of the age” is here. The final battle depicted in Revelation as well as in the Puranas, Pali canon, and Tibetan texts is a race war. It is RaHoWa!

(Note: in Matthew 24:14 is what Christians call the “Great Commission”. The gospels had been preached globally to literally all “nations” (ie Greek ethne) sometime during the twenty first century. Not a single isolated tribe has not been in contact with so called “Christian” missionaries preaching the gospels. Even the obscure and primitive Sentinelese were visited by a Chinese missionary preaching the gospels, whom they violently killed. But how does one interpret this passage? With the world as connected as it is in the post-modern era, there is not a single person who does not have access to the Christian Gospels, whether they care to read them is something else entirely. But it is obvious that this portion of the prophecy has been fulfilled. Some believe it was fulfilled long ago in fact since the “ethne” referred to in the passage only had to do with the different “nations” in contact with the Greco-Roman civilization. Even Paul in Colossians 1:6 and 1:23 gives his own interpretation that the great commission had been completed in his lifetime. Aryanity of course does not recognize the faulty Jewish opinions of Paul, but truths can be revealed by reading between the lines when studying the words of Jewish gatekeepers. So what does this mean? Shouldn't Christos have already revealed himself? If one considers the fact that the true teachings had been butchered by the early Pauline church, then it makes sense that Christos would not have revealed himself until the "end of the age" as he stated, which incidentally coincides with the revelation of the long lost Gnostic texts)

-The Black Sun Prophecy

Aryanity has been observing an oral prophecy since ad 2017, it is written down for the first time here to be published for our proselytes to read and meditate on. In 2017 the "Rise of the Black Sun" was prophesied with the great eclipse that crossed North America that year on August 21st. With this prophecy came the declaration that we were currently experiencing seven years of tribulation as foretold in the biblical texts. The tribulation started approximately two months before the first eclipse on June 14th-15th during the perigee of Saturn, when the earth was closest to the Demiurgic sphere. One thousand two hundred and ninety days from this day as foretold by the prophet Daniel, the Doctrine of Aryanity was published on Christmas day 2020, during the great conjunction when Saturn was eclipsed by Jupiter.

This Great Conjunction was the so-called "Star of Bethlehem" or "Christmas Star" which appears roughly every 800 years give or take several hundred years, but not commonly on the Winter Solstice. The last time a Great Conjunction happened on the Winter Solstice was in 7 BC, roughly 41 years after the birth of Issa Ptolemy, whom Aryanity proclaims was the real-life inspiration for the allegorical mythos of Christ Jesus. Within this allegorical mystery tradition, the Three Wise Men or "Three Kings" are said to follow the star that leads to the birthplace of "Im-Manu-El", which is translated as meaning "God with us" but interestingly contains both the ancient Canaanite name for the highest God (El) and the Vedic name for the archetypal man (Manu). Even more interestingly this name is only used once and the child is later called Jesus in the Latinized texts, yet the name Jesus is still pronounced Isho in Syriac and Isa in Arabic, which is closer to the original Greco-Egyptian pronunciation of the Name Issa, which means "Son of Isis". Issa is even a common Hebrew name meaning Messiah.

Therefore a mystery exists as to why the three wise men are depicted following an astronomical event to the birthplace of Christ Jesus 41 years after Issa Ptolemy was said to have been born. The esoteric key to this mystery is in John 1:1 "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God". The allegorical tale of the Three Wise Men was describing an astro-theological event, which occurred along with the Christmas Star of 7 BC around the time Christianity is known to have developed. The three stars of Orion's Belt, also known as "The Three Kings" seem to be following Sirius during the Winter Solstice, and point directly to where the sun rises on December 25th, which historically was known by ancient Aryan Pagans as the birth of the Sun God. It was during this time when the story of Issa Ptolemy, who had already been deified as the Sun God as the last pharaoh of Egypt, was mythologized into an allegorical mystery tradition, to revive the ancient Aryan tradition of Sun worship, to combat the ever-growing nuisance of Hellenistic Judaism, hence "...the Word was God".

The great conjunction of 2020 also occurred roughly 41 years after the birth of the founder of Aryanity who revealed the Doctrine of Aryanity on his birthday, Christmas Day as a gift to all Aryans. This was done purposely to fulfill the astro-theological event of "The Word" (Logos/Verbo) "made flesh" as stated in John 1:14, which is the mystery of this passage revealed. This marked the midway point of the tribulation, which will last a total of 42 months or 1335 days after, approximately 4 months after a second eclipse on April 8th, 2024 ending two days after the blue moon when the sun is in the cusp of Libra and Leo, signaling the coming of Divine judgment when the lion holds the scales of justice. This will coincidentally be the same date as the first eclipse, August 21st. Hence the prophecy foretold by Danial and then again by John of Patmos will be fulfilled. The second eclipse also crosses over North America intersecting the totality of the first eclipse exactly over the New Madrid zone in between the Mississippi and the Ohio rivers, with both totalities visible from the location where the Aryan Church was founded, X marks the spot.

From this point forward after the seven-year tribulation, the White souls in this world who are trapped in the cycle of Samsara will be judged, and a new phase in the spiritual/biological evolution of the Human species will begin. As the rate of White Aryan births declines and the mortality rate rises, those Whites who have not converted to Aryanity will not be granted passage after death to the next rung in the ladder of evolution, which is the fifth and final sub-race of Aryans. These stragglers who don't guard their hearts against the psycho-spiritual attacks of the Maledictans will continue their decline as Aryanity becomes compact and strong like a diamond, with a clear vision of our forbidden destiny. As the race traitors lie on their deathbeds surrounded by their mixlings and other horrors their final judgment will be complete, and they will not be allowed up the ladder of bio-spiritual evolution, but their psychic souls will reincarnate as one of the mixlings that now pollute their bloodline, or worse depending upon their Karma.

-First Phase of RaHoWa

It was in diaspora that we discovered more than just faraway lands, we also discovered our true identity as one Aryan race. It is from these colonial lands that Imperium must be spearheaded. The American multicultural empire will fall. Yet with all of its flaws, such as its infiltration by the Maledictans, and its undermining by mass non-White immigration will be the staging point for Aryan imperialism. The North American continent is a crucible of ethnic conflict the likes of which has never been seen and Omnis willing will never be seen again. This crucible of ethnic conflict will over time and inevitably break out into a massive fourth-generation war between multiple competing civilian and government factions made up of civilian militias and Jewish state-sponsored goon squads.

The Jew is purposefully engineering this war with the hope that it will wipe out their most dangerous and most ancient enemy, the White Aryan. But they have overplayed their hand and operate under the delusions of materialism and trust in their materialistic power to defeat the metaphysical power of the Aryan. They can never understand the true nature of the Aryan soul as existing outside of this world of illusions, and hence our innate ability to change the world and ourselves, to suit our needs. Hence the Church of Aryanity prophesies the coming of the Racial Holy War as our apocalyptic tradition.

It is not the will of Omnis for the Aryan to go extinct but for our souls and blood to be purified through the fires of struggle as has always been the way for our people. The Maledictan Jews enforcing policies in Western nations that create conditions designed to promote dysgenics and degeneracy only cause weak-minded and weak-willed Whites to take themselves out of our gene pool, thus purifying our race and ultimately making our breeding population stronger. Only weak-willed and weak-minded Whites continually succumb to race-mixing propaganda, sexual degeneracy, drug addiction, and medical scams, thus being selected out of the pure-blooded breeding population. But we must take special care to protect our youth from the poison of the Maledictans.

Left to continue this will create a population bottleneck of strong-willed and intelligent Aryans with a superior self-preservation instinct, which has its ultimate expression in the form of racial preservation, hence breeding the Aryan God-men of the mythic fifth root race, ie the sixth sub-race of Aryans. Eventually, only racially aware Aryans will be left and they will refuse to capitulate to the Maledictan program of White genocide, which will result in demands for a White ethnostate. This demand for a White ethnostate will inevitably result in militant rhetoric due to the refusal of the Jewish elites to allow Whites our basic human right of freedom of association. These demands and the likely normalization of militant rhetoric will perhaps cause other ethno-nationalist groups to follow suit, demanding their own ethnostate as well, which is likely to lead to an ethnic civil war, or perhaps a mixture of diplomacy and conflict leading to racial Balkanization.

In North America, the cultural attitude of White Americans is far less subservient to government than what is commonly associated with European nations. Likewise, in Australia a similar attitude amongst native White Australians is common. In the US, Canada, Australia, and South Africa we recommend a combination of diplomacy, repatriation, and Balkanization, but it is unrealistic to assume that members of any faction will agree to just separate peaceably and amicably as is the most logical course of action. Rather it is realistic to assume that multiple civil conflicts will break out during this process and that many of them will be instigated by the Jew as the ethno-nationalistic program is in direct opposition to their globalist agenda.

There is historical precedent that relatively peaceful Balkanization has occurred in the past, such as the separation of Pakistan and India, though circumstances there were much different between the Pakistani Muslims and the Indian Hindus. The primary difference is that neither side was being indoctrinated by Jewish propaganda, nor were they under systems of control occupied by hostile Jewish elites, therefore an amicable separation of hostile ethnic groups being forced to integrate in the West is unlikely unless the occupational government is overthrown first, which itself is unlikely until massive civil conflict breaks out.

It is unlikely that the majority of brainwashed, low-intellect, non-Whites will be reasonable enough to agree on an amicable separation even though it is in their best interests, nor that their Jewish overlords will allow it unless the more intelligent members of these races replace their Jewish overlords with competent nationalistic leadership as we sometimes witness. The likely unreasonable response by Jewish elites to demands for Balkanization will inevitably result in acts of desperation by oppressed groups who will engage in tactical violence such as sabotage of critical infrastructure and assassinations. The chaos that erupts from these acts will create conditions that will be seized upon by the Jewish-owned media monopoly to goad militants from multiple ethnic groups into targeting innocent Whites.

Rather than targeting the true source of their own grievances, which are the Jewish elites who are responsible for the violations of our freedom of association, as well as their non-White and traitor White political cronies, innocent White civilians will be targeted instead, which will continue to radicalize the moderate White population. There are some nationalistic black American groups that have listened to reason in the past such as the Nation of Islam, Hotep Nation, and the so-called Black Israelites, who have at least a rudimentary understanding of the Jewish problem. Likewise, there may be a diplomatic solution that can be attempted with radical Mestizo groups such as La Raza and the Brown Berets. Contending with the more apolitical street gangs in territorial warfare will likely be less diplomatic.

If all forms of diplomacy fail to convince the ethno-nationalist factions as to what the true issue is, and the Jews manage to hold on to a controlling interest over the systems of governance, then the global civil race war will start in incremental spurts of violence between competing groups, which has already been occurring on a small scale in post-modern America. One can argue that this phase has really already begun, as diplomatic talks were attempted by White Nationalists in the teens to no avail, and our grievances weren't taken seriously by the occupational government. The periodic spasms of massive anti-White street violence and rioting have become "seasonal" in the post-modern era and will show no sign of abating until the Maledictans are fully exposed.

These riots, mass murders, and melee battles in the streets perpetrated by anti-Whites, so far have the occupational government scrambling to contain them with oppressive legal measures while showing obvious favoritism and a double standard to the anti-Whites by declining to prosecute them equally under so-called “hate-crime” laws, or even at all in many cases. While White activists are routinely made into an example by the system with life sentences for justifiable self-defense against their anti-White and communist attackers. This legal double standard is used by the occupational government as a means of political intimidation to thwart White activists from exercising their innate human right of protest and even self-defense, but those who recognize this blatant corruption only gain more confirmation that their willingness to struggle and sacrifice for their children by fighting against the anti-White system is valid.

These oppressive measures against Whites can only result in an uptick of more serious political violence by both Whites and anti-Whites. Whites will respond to oppressive anti-White policies and resort to both lone wolf acts of desperation as well as form small well-organized decentralized underground militias that start conducting more serious operations, meanwhile, the anti-Whites will be emboldened by the apparent government sanctioning of political violence against Whites and thus continue to commit atrocities against us. This can only continue as a positive feedback loop and eventually result in spurts of organized mass violence by civilian militias on multiple sides.

Even more oppressive measures by the occupational government will occur, which will undoubtedly garner military involvement. But unlike the first American Civil War, where states seceded and military units picked sides, the American military will be brainwashed to combat “the evil White supremacists”. By this time the military will have already lost the support of most conservative White Americans and be comprised almost entirely of anti-Whites, females, and homosexuals. The UN may get involved due to the lack of an effective military or the Jewish-occupied government may hire left-wing or foreign mercenary armies.

Eventually, even the most milquetoast White conservative will start supporting what was commonly considered radical or extremist narratives. This will lead to total censorship of mainstream internet platforms, banning of all right-wing political discourse, and a crackdown by tech companies in shutting down right-wing discussion forums. This has already started on a large scale, but at the time of this work there are still some highly censored social media outlets that haven’t gained full control over their users, as well as underground and encrypted forums outside the grasp of government and corporate overreach. The information war is ongoing, and with every oppressive measure by the Jewish establishment, even more clever means are developed to subvert them. Likewise, there will be a complete ban on right-wing mainstream media or it will be re-branded to disseminate left-wing anti-White narratives. Finally, a de facto ban on all right-wing political opposition will take place leading to a “politically correct” single-party takeover of the former United States.

This is when the mask of the Jewish occupational government will come off as fully sanctioning the genocide of the White race, but they will deny this to keep their brainwashed traitor Whites complacent during the initial purges, which will begin with the internment of White political dissidents. During this period there will be a great deal of former White military veterans who join with the White civilian militias to do battle with the Jewish mercenary army known as the American military, and White civilians will start conducting widespread tax revolts and workers' strikes which will result in further oppressive measures by the government, including but not limited to state kidnapping of children from White parents, political imprisonment of dissidents, and assassinations of White leadership.

Any extant non-White ethno-nationalists such as La Raza or the Black Panthers will be compelled to join the US military to fight against the White militias, and to police disobedient White civilians. Most will undoubtedly join while others may be wise enough to realize that they should have uprooted the Jew and Balkanized. But more and more White civilians will awaken to the reality of their situation and realize that there is no other option than to fight for survival. White civilian militias will become more organized and establish better communications in the wake of total censorship. Relying on the massive stockpiles of prepper guns and ammo stashes in the US they will win battles against the American military and other enemy factions, resupplying with military-grade weapons as war booty.

Foreign governments will also take interest in the conflict and begin supplying the White dissidents with arms and supplies. After taking heavy losses fighting with the Jewish occupational military, other ethno-nationalist factions will break away from the American military to fight the Jewish occupation for the promise of Balkanization and their own ethnostate independent of Jewish control. Eventually, enough territory will come under the control of White dissidents that an official provisional government will take form within an ethnostate, the first places to achieve relative independence will likely be certain areas of the South, perhaps the Ozarks, and Appalachia, also large swaths of the land in the Mid-West. Eventually, these ethnostates will merge and the provisional governments will become one entity. Though Aryans must always remember this caveat, it must always be enforced without mercy that both American conservatism and liberalism are dead and that anyone who tries to cling to these poisonous ideologies must be relentlessly shamed, likewise, any who attempt to revive this form of civic nationalism must be eliminated. To tolerate conservatism or liberalism is as bad as tolerating the Jew, eventually, it will simply poison the well yet again if it is allowed to exist.

-Second Phase of Rahowa

After much conflict during the inevitable racial civil wars that have the potential to last decades, and the removal of Jewish elites from any and all positions of power and influence, a combination of civil conflict, repatriation of invaders, and diplomacy will result in cordoning off non-Whites into separate ethnostates. Likewise, the seizure and control of caches of weapons of mass destruction will result in a new type of diplomacy amongst the factions. A new political map will take form with strict border control and “multicultural buffer zones” that will serve as a “biological barrier” between the ethnostates where mixlings will be relocated. Also, the buffer zones will serve as free trade centers where the ethnostates can conduct trade with each other if they so choose, such as raw material from the non-Whites in exchange for quality manufactured goods from the Whites. Civil conflict should be mitigated in the buffer zones with a police force controlled by the White ethnostates and the buffer zones should never be allowed to form their own police, or military lest they attack our borders. The mixlings will be allowed to govern themselves, but only under the watchful eye of the pureblood Aryans.

When racial civil war inevitably breaks out in the colonial lands other colonies will follow in short order, all with the same goal of creating sovereign ethnostates for Whites only. This Balkanization of White colonial lands will create permanent vengefulness between the White ethnostates and the non-White ethnostates formed from the conflict. The former territory of the United States, Canada, and Australia lost to the darklings and mixlings will be bitterly begrudged, which may lead to generational conflict and a push to develop infrastructure and raise armies to take back these lands from the non-White ethnostates. Though we should always show the appearance of being amicable and diplomatic when dealing with our non-White neighbors, unless they transgress upon us first by such acts as violating arms treaties, or making other clandestine preparations for warfare. In such a case these transgressions should be met with the full force that having the moral high ground affords White Aryans militarily.

In Europa, an ethno-nationalistic civil war is unlikely to be organized first due to the subservience of the common people to small nation-states, the puppet rulers of which are subservient to the Jewish globalist agenda. Separate European ethnic groups are unlikely to abandon their obsolete ethnic grudges to forge necessary alliances with other ethnic Europeans with the goal of overthrowing their traitorous puppet leaders. There will undoubtedly be mass protests, rioting, and small skirmishes organized against the White replacement program being enforced on Europe by the United Nations and the European Union.

Even now there are dissenters from this program, yet the program of White replacement continues unabated on a massive scale. But once Europe witnesses a united White diaspora in the colonial lands it will inspire them to forego their resistance in redefining their identities as White Aryans, rather than ethnic Europeans. In Europa, there can be no strategic diplomacy or giving ground to the non-White invaders or mixlings. In this scenario, a united Europe must demand the repatriation of all non-White invaders from the European continent, and that mixlings immigrate to the multicultural buffer zones within the colonial lands. Any resistance to these demands will be met swiftly and brutally by organized White European militias.

In South America, there will be a similar program to North America, though diplomacy is unlikely to be a viable tactic in most of the continent because the mixing and Mestizo populations are much greater than in the US or Canada. But in countries like Argentina, Chile, Paraguay, Uruguay, and South Brazil a White Aryan uprising against the communists there would easily result in White ethnostates and a cordoning off of reservations for indigenous tribes and buffer zones for Mestizo mixlings. If only they could be inspired by what is inevitable to occur in North America they might organize their own resistance to the globalist program there.

Though the South American White diaspora is the least likely to initiate a White revolution with the goal of creating a South American White ethnostate until it has been successful in other colonial lands. Though even in modern times White Europeans are emigrating from their failed and invaded states and immigrating to several South American destinations, following the lead of many Germans who were forced to emigrate after the war and seek refuge in places like Uruguay and Argentina. These Nordic Aryan holdouts will one day spring forth in prominence as the White Aryan world corrects itself back to a racially aware civilization.

-Third Phase of RaHoWa

After the likely many decades-long civil wars throughout the West to take back sovereign homelands for Whites, three or possibly four superstates will emerge from the fog of war. A united North American (US/Canada) White ethnostate, a united Australian White ethnostate (sans Chinese interference), a united European White ethnostate, and perhaps a united Slavic/Russian White ethnostate. A united South American White ethnostate will possibly emerge later and a united White South Africa is possible with aid from the White superstates. By this time Aryanity will have spread to every Western nation and the spirit of Imperium will forge political alliances that will transform the emerging superstates into a single Aryan Imperium. In Aryanity we call this future prophesied Aryan Imperium the "Tertium Imperium" in homage to the great theocracy of Pagan Rome, which was later transformed into the theocracy of Holy Rome.

We recognize Rome as the founder of White Imperialism in Europa. It was from this Roman spirit that lives in the blood of nearly all ethnic Europeans that inspired the colonial expansion of the British, French, and Spanish empires. And even European nations that were not a part of the Roman Empires eventually became culturally Roman, with their conversion to Christianity. Though none of the three great colonial empires could be called the Tertium Imperium for they were not governed by theocracies, nor did they fundamentally transform the religious identity of White Aryans. But they did fundamentally transform the racial identity of White Aryans, which must now be allowed to transform our religious identity into its final and complete form away from the suicidal universalism and pathological altruism of mainstream Christianity.

Independent and decentralized Aryan Temples will go through many periods of reorganization where centralized authority will begin to exercise more control over the clerical hierarchy. Where there were once free agents operating independently as missionaries for the church, and clandestine Temples operating within hostile territory, these separate temples will be united into a monolithic hierarchy, with the same goal of global Aryan supremacy under Theocracy. As the Aryan Church is pulled together under the authority of a new Aryan Vatican, simultaneously classical Christendom will be abolished in favor of the new Aryan religion, which cannot be infiltrated or subverted by hostile anti-Whites. Slowly the Christian churches populated by non-Whites abroad will wither away without the financial support and moral guidance of White Christians. Left to their own devices the Christianized non-Whites will revert to their natural state of primal savagery and experience a population collapse without the support of White Aryans.

Likewise, the non-White ethnostates that emerged from the civil wars in the colonial lands will experience a gradual but steady decline into savagery in lieu of support by White Aryans. As these nations decline, the White ethnostates will recover economically, socially, and politically, experiencing a population boom that will require living space for the growing population. The non-White descendants of the invaders into White lands now living in their default third-world conditions will put up little resistance to the expanding Aryan population. As living space is needed it will be taken, first from the colonial ethnostates, and later from Africa.

In the Semitic lands, the Jews who escaped their fate by repatriating to Israel will once again turn their living space into a ghetto in lieu of financial and military support from Zionist Christians in the West and Jewish oligarchs. Great wars will erupt between the Arab Muslims and the Jews in Israel with the Muslims emerging victorious after a nuclear war in the Middle East that will completely wipe Jerusalem and Mecca off the face of the earth. But at their backs will be the revitalization of Persian nationalism in Iran, which given support from the Tertium Imperium will wage Jihad against the Arabs, Iraqis, Turks, Afghans, and Pakistanis, ending in Northern India. Eventually, this will result in a new Persian Empire of Eastern Aryans.

-Fourth phase of RaHoWa

The remaining Semitic lands in the Arabian peninsula, the Levant, and North Africa will be Arab and devoid of practicing Jews, yet the blood of the Maledictans will continue to exist as it has existed in Arabs since ancient times and as crypto-Jews continuing to masquerade as simple Arabs, Persians, and White Aryans, but especially as Arabs and Turks. In Morocco, Berber nationalism will be supported and a eugenics program will ensue to purify Berber blood from Arab and Negro pollutants, while the extant European diaspora in Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, and Libya will acquire great power in these lands. This Berber nationalism will build and White Berber tribes will unite to fight the Arab invaders in North Africa. Eventually, the lands of Algeria, Tunisia, Libya, and Egypt will be liberated and claimed by the remaining descendants of the ancient indigenous Whites of North Africa.

Simultaneously while the North African expansion of Berbers and extant European diaspora is being conducted, the remaining Afrikaners will be given aid to take back all of South Africa. This will create persecution amongst the extant European diaspora in Mozambique, Zimbabwe, Zambia, Botswana, Namibia, and Angola, which will compel Afrikaners to conduct a Southern African revolution, and reclaim the colonial territories from coast to coast all the way to the Congo. In this way, it will be said that Siener's prophecies will be fulfilled and the Boer will once again become the undisputed masters of Southern Africa.

-Fifth phase of RaHoWa

The imperialism of the Aryans will not go unnoticed by the East Asian Mongoloids and will be perceived as a threat to them. Diplomatic relationships with China in particular, but also Korea and Japan, and Southeast Asian nations must be conducted from the beginning of RaHoWa, and a strong friendship must be fostered for without this friendship our efforts can be easily sabotaged by their interference in our affairs. The Chinaman must be made to understand that friendly relations with Aryans are of much greater benefit to them than that of the scheming Jew who is destined to lose due to his hubris.

Friendly relations with the Chinaman are of much greater importance to us in the beginning phases of RaHoWa than once we have established Imperium with independent infrastructure that makes our people self-reliant and foreign trade unnecessary. Ideally, the cultures of the Mongoloid and that of the Aryan should be self-sufficient so that we both can follow our evolutionary paths without foreign interference. But as is the way of this world, ultimately one race must ascend to the title of "Master Race". East Asian Mongoloids are the closest evolutionary cousins to us Aryans, and the title of master race has not yet been bestowed upon either race, for to claim this title requires claiming the world as the supreme and undisputed authority.

This does not mean that one race must destroy the other for supremacy, yet it may very well come to that if one side or the other refuses to embrace its proper place in the evolutionary hierarchy. The China of the post-modern era being under the control of the Chinese Communist Party is not sustainable and the majority of Chinese would likely rebel if they were in a position to, the persecution of various religious sects such as Fulon Gong and the legitimate aristocracy of old China in exile has lead to Chinese diaspora consolidating power internationally and in Taiwan and has already become a viable force toward fomenting anti-communist counter-revolution in China and abroad.

As vile and destructive as the Jew has been to our people, the Chinaman has the potential to be far more dangerous long term. Aryans must tread lightly when dealing with them in a scenario where two global powers emerge in the East and West. In the West, Aryans will rise like a phoenix from the ashes of our failed institutions. Whereas in the East the old dragon guards the heavens, eventually the phoenix will battle the old dragon for supremacy, but not until the fire is so hot that it burns away all of the impurities remaining from both of our races age of degeneracy. Until then the phoenix and the dragon will perform their aerobatic dance.

There is still much ethnic hatred between the Chinese, Mongols, Japanese, and Koreans, yet all four seem content to leave each other in peace for the time being. This relative peace can change in a single generation if the romanticism of the feudal period returns. Imperialism in the East would be just as necessary as it is for us, for Mongoloids to become the Master Race. Only a unified people can conquer this world of the Demiurge, a divided people will always fail to dethrone the King of the World. The first race to unite as a single people under a single religio-cultural paradigm will be the first to complete the climb up the evolutionary ladder. Once on top, the rate of biological and technological advancement becomes exponential.

-Sixth phase of RaHoWa

The sixth and final phase of RaHoWa occurs after the title of Master Race has been settled. From this vantage point, the Aryan race has nowhere else to go from its station as undisputed masters of the surface world except toward the last remaining undiscovered realms. This includes all earthly realms as of yet uncharted, the celestial realm of planets, stars, galaxies, parallel universes, the infinite expanse of spacetime, and the mystical realms. As we make advancements in our biology through the science of eugenics, so too will we make spiritual advancements and access to the mystical realms will yet again become commonplace amongst Aryans, as it was for our ancestors during the forgotten ages of the Satya Yuga. The Kali Yuga will end and we will have come full circle in the spiral of the ages.

Let the reader understand that the Racial Holy War is ongoing, and existed well before the modern age. All wars have been Racial Holy Wars, even brother wars for they have served to cleanse us of weakness and false notions, even when the righteous lose. A sober examination of the conflict after the fact will reveal the flaws in strategy and ideology amongst both sides, which if accepted will lead to a much greater victory. Racial Holy War is the impetus that drives our evolutionary development toward our forbidden destiny as the standard bearers of the Divine within the illusory world of the Demiurge.

As the apex species upon the surface of this planet, it is our purpose to ascend and exist as the ultimate expression of Divinity and Will within this universe, which is intrinsically hostile to life. In this abysmal plane of existence, the evolutionary war is actually a spiritual war. It is a war against the forces of darkness, which drive all life toward stagnation, dysgenics, and extinction. Until relatively recently only we Aryans to a large degree had attained and integrated self-mastery into our common social fabric and to a lesser degree the Mongoloids due to their contact with Aryans historically.

Our racial genius is the only force on the surface of this planet that has the ability to ascend beyond the material delusion toward a higher perception of reality, thus allowing us to conquer both this realm and the unseen realms. As a race, we simply must separate the wheat from the chaff to harvest our full potential. This separation of the dysgenic remains in our gene pool has already begun and two parallel societies of breeding have developed over the many thousands of years our people have struggled to maintain our existence. Most of our people are unaware that such a separation has existed because it has been extant on an instinctual level for men of agency to choose worthy female companions as vessels of the Sanctorem Sanguinem.

The common White population is largely unaware that there is a higher Aryan race that lives amongst them and will eventually split off completely to become a distinct species. Only when we finally gain full control over our own species' evolution through eugenics will we be able to breed the "Sons of Man", hence the evolutionary descendant of "humans". The Sons of Man will be a race of super-humans descended from future eugenics programs that will finalize the split from the common men of the White race. Most of these common men will die during future collapse and war, while only the best of our race will survive to pass on their genes thus finalizing the creation of the final sub-race of Aryans.

-Conclusion

As White Aryans, we are under attack like never before as a race. We bring our civilization and technology with "good will to men" to the savage races and only received hatred and jealousy from them in return. They use our technology and governments against us and their Semitic overlords have psychologically manipulated them toward supporting our genocide and their own enslavement. The Maledictans have weaponized the Mixlings and the Darklings against the Aryan man by allowing them to flood into our living space, but all of the forces of darkness brought to bear against us will be defeated if we simply unite as one monolith. We know that there is no compromising with them, those who have compromised and betrayed their race have simply been used as pawns toward their own destruction. We know that it is their agenda to destroy us all so that in their perceived future there will no longer exist even a single Aryan man or woman.

Those who out of fear of reprisal and cowardice spend their days placating the invaders going along with their agenda or even aiding in it with the hope that they will just be left alone are sadly mistaken as behind their backs their non-White “friends” and even mixing family members shame them for their weakness and place blame on them for their own failings. It is long past time for the best of the White Aryan race to stand united against the vile ungrateful hordes who parasitize off of our civilization and threaten our destruction! There is no amount of placating them or compromising with them that will satiate their need for validation and elevation above us. They do not want “equality”, this much is obvious, and even if they did this is hardly possible since nature made us unequal. Instinctively they know this and understand that the only way they can elevate themselves in an evolutionary sense is by breeding with us and destroying us.

We are now drastically outnumbered by enemy races due to the lack of action by previous generations who were brainwashed by guilt propaganda into complacency. During this age of White Aryan awakening, many traditionalist factions of racially aware Whites have developed who yearn to return to an idealized past where Whites were masters of their own destiny. This factionalism has caused a plague of infighting amongst the racially aware factions as they attempt to settle the cultural aesthetics and fine details of what form a future White Aryan world will take. As the factions are preoccupied with infighting the Jewish program of White genocide continues. Aryanity was created to end the infighting between the factions of racially aware Whites by showing us all that the age of ethnic and religious infighting amongst Europeans and European diaspora is over, and that we can't go back to the way things were.

The civilizational model that sustained Europa through the Pagan era ran its course and evolved into the Christian era. Then as now the model set by the Christian era has also run its course and now stands as a failing and obsolete system. Without rejecting our history and without attempting to revive it we must embrace a new civilizational model that will unite all White Aryans under a single monolithic cultural banner, for to do otherwise will render us too fractured to be able to organize ourselves into an effective defensive posture against our own ongoing genocide. Hence we must embrace a new era, based upon our updated understanding of the world and our place in it as one distinct Aryan race, rather than a collection of ethnicities clinging to obsolete cultural nuances and religious dogmas that only keep us divided.

This new era will see the passing away of the failed and corrupted institutions of Christendom, while at the same time honoring the true spirit that allowed Christianity to prosper in Europe for two thousand years. What once united the European continent, now only aids in the decline of our racial homogeneity and hegemony over our own destiny, due to its central tenets of universalism and philo-semitism. Traditional Christianity mischaracterizes the lower races as just as capable of salvation as the Aryan when the salvific path can only be tread by those with a certain level of understanding, which is a result of a certain cognitive ability that most non-Whites lack. The modern attempts to rewrite Judeo-Christianity into a purely racialist religion are disingenuous, filled with cognitive biases, and lacking in authenticity.

Hence why we need a new religion for all white Aryans and only White Aryans, built around our updated and accurate understanding of racial biology and comparative religion, rather than attempting to reformulate an outdated religion with our updated understanding. For this reason, Aryanity was created; it is the religion of the New Age, That which was prophesied many times by our Aryan saints, a prophecy now fulfilled, and making new prophecies of its own. Aryanity will be the foundation for this new celestial age, upon which will be built a monolithic civilization the likes of which can only be dreamed about or compared to the ancient mythos of Atlantis.

The vision of Aryanity is a future that is not only one of sovereignty for White Aryans, but one where our accomplishments in the sciences, engineering, architecture, the arts, philosophy, and religion will be unmatched by any period of history. Where we will accomplish monumental feats as a civilization that as of yet most can't even imagine. But to embrace this Forbidden Destiny, first we must embrace our own survival as a race, and in turn, the only way to accomplish this survival is to embrace an unshakable unity, Aryanity is the only way to achieve this necessary unity. We must abandon our individual egos, our need for recognition, and learn to find satisfaction in humbly accepting our role in a single hierarchy, the purpose of which is to save our people from genocide. To do otherwise is to admit that one's own desires and opinions are more important than the survival of all White Aryans.

Thus I call on all White Aryans with even the slightest understanding of our racial destiny, and our glorious history to trust in Divine will that Aryans follow the path of Aryanity, for it is the only path that clearly shows our survival, instead of a nihilistic end of the world scenario where all mankind and the world is destroyed as if this is the ultimate will of the Divine. No! Aryanity proclaims that it is our destiny to survive the great cataclysm that we all know is coming. Not only will we survive, we will be transformed by it to take on the next phase of our evolution.

Join us in our Great Work toward this Forbidden Destiny, be a part of history in the making, not just any history, the most important crossroads in the history of our race and of this world. What happens because of Aryanity will be earth-shaking; not a single historical event will ever be more monumental than the salvation of the White Aryan race from genocide. It will never be forgotten, and neither will those who directly participated in saving their race. Not only is Aryanity offering genuine spiritual immortality through Gnosis and ascension, but we offer the immortality of one's name in the book of life. Only in life can one avoid the second death, where your name and deeds are forgotten by your people forever. Live a life worthy of remembrance!

Book Two: The Aryan Catechism

Part One: How to Proselytize Aryanity

-Who Can be an Aryan Proselyte?

The Church of Aryanity has strict guidelines as to who can be a proselyte and who can't; that is what makes our religion unique amongst other religions who simply want numbers and wealth. We do not agree that every member of what is collectively termed "humankind" is either human nor spiritually worthy to be a member of the Aryan Church. Only those members of the White Aryan race, who have a specific threshold of racial hygiene can become Practicing Aryans. Likewise, we reject membership requests from White race-mixers with offspring from an unholy union, anyone who is actively engaging in degenerate homosexual relationships, or who have an active illegal drug addiction. We will not deny those with degeneracy in their past if they have come to a point in their life path where they disavow the actions of their past. There must be a certain level of grace for the race, due to the post modern environment being saturated with Jewish propaganda designed to corrupt and undermine our civilization. None of the generations of Whites who have lived after the Great War against Germany can escape the influence of Jewish propaganda. And we cannot expect those wallowing in the muck to stay clean.

It is only through the perseverance of our Aryan souls that we have been able to rebuke the Maledictan poison that constantly surround us. Only through the process of Aryan enlightenment have we gained the spiritual, physical, and mental strength to resist these poisons that others seem to succumb to without so much of a twinge of guilt. In the post modern age, degeneracy has become so normalized that some have even embraced this degenerate lifestyle and promote it proudly, seemingly losing their very humanity and reverting into a beast-like state that seeks only what they perceive as pleasure or an escape from their internalized suffering through various forms of escapist trappings. These types are easy to recognize and avoid; any Aryan missionary need not waste his or her time attempting to save them, but rather utilize their efforts wisely by identifying their target demographic. Those who do not convert may have a chance in their next life, so it is pointless to dwell on being unable to enlighten those who are resistant to the raw truth of Aryanity.

This target demographic may not even be as of yet racially aware, but there will be subtle clues as to their ability to receive the knowledge of Aryanity without being blinded by the common knee jerk reactions of the cognitively dissonant. First thing one must identify is their open-mindedness to new ideas and innate curiosity. Generally speaking these types of people have above average intelligence, and their ability to articulate can be the first clue toward how malleable they are. Yet some very intelligent people who have already come into contact with enemy propaganda will most likely not be malleable because enemy propaganda is always laced with a superiority complex that results in the inflation of the victims ego, which in turn makes it nearly impossible to break their conditioning. These types often parrot the same trite responses and talking points as if they were literally programmed into their brain all simultaneously, creating two opposing sub-cultures of lemmings repeating all of the same cliches while ironically proclaiming their individuality.

The first step in deciding who to approach as a prospect is if they look White and have enough of the phenotypical qualities of Whiteness as outlined in the racial requirements of the Aryan Church:

Racial requirements for joining the Church of Aryanity

Explaining the racial threshold of Aryans with distant non-Aryan ancestry

One full Great Grandparent of any race except Jewish or Negro makes one eligible for membership in the Aryan Church, though they are forbidden from marriage with other mixed blood Aryans

Anything greater than one Great Grandparent who was full non-White or any mixture resulting in more than one-eighth non-White ancestry makes one ineligible for membership in the Aryan Church

Unlike other races, one-eighth Negroidal ancestry makes one ineligible for membership in the Aryan Church, one-sixteenth is acceptable with limitations on marriage with other mixed blood Aryans

Suspected Jewish ancestry (not including autosomal DNA) makes one ineligible for membership within the Aryan Church
Unbroken paternal line Haplogroup J or I
Unbroken maternal line Haplogroup K or N

One-Sixteenth or less non-Jewish/non-Aryan ancestry will be considered de facto fully Aryan for at this level of admixture both physical traits as well as psychological traits are virtually undetectable

KEY

- Western Aryan (White: Nordic, Celtic, Roman, Slavic, Baltic)
- Eastern Aryan (Persian, Hindu)
- Maledictan (Jew)
- Semite (Arab)
- Eastern Mongoloid (Oriental)
- Western Mongoloid (Amerindian)
- Negroid (Black: Sub-Saharan African, Dravidian, Australoid)
- ⊕ One-Sixteenth ancestry
- ⊕ One-Eighth ancestry
- ⊕ One-fourth ancestry
- ⊖ One-Half ancestry

Racial laws of the Aryan Church based off of the Nuremberg racial laws set forth in 1935 with modifications to Jewish and Negroidal ancestry. We feel that someone with one-eighth Negroidal ancestry still displays physical characteristics of this ancestry due to its dominant traits. Likewise, the Church of Aryanity applies the one drop rule to anyone with Jewish ancestry. Considering the depraved history of the Jewish nation we believe one drop has the potential to poison the entire well. Any Aryans with partial Jewish ancestry who are genuinely dedicated to the Aryan movement are encouraged to refrain from procreation so as to do their part in eliminating the scourge of this accursed bloodline from the world for all time. So mote it be.

ARYANITY.COM OCCIDENTALTEMPLARS.COM

Also, a statement must be made about Eastern Aryans concerning their status as members of the Aryan race. Eastern Aryans have a very broad spectrum of diversity, whereas Western Aryan's diversity spectrum is very narrow in comparison, which allows us validity in considering Romans, Celts, Nordics, Slavs, and Baltics equally as Aryan. Western Aryans are much closer to the original Aryan and Proto-Aryan stock genetically considering we had to contend with far less miscegenation. Since Eastern Aryans existed on the borders of different races for so long and through millennia of miscegenation with Dravidians, Arabs, and Mongols became racially impure, they cannot be included for membership within the Aryan Church. Yet, as stated before their diversity spectrum is very broad, and ranges from almost indistinguishable from Europeans to as dark as sub-Saharan Africans. Many Armenians, Persians, Afghans, and North Indians are still very racially pure, and it would be wrong of us to consider them incapable of attaining Aryan Gnosis through the path of Aryanity.

While we recognize that certain members of the Eastern Aryan collective are still technically White Aryans or Honorary Aryans we cannot accept them within the Western Aryan Church so as to avoid the potential taint of their admixture to our bloodlines. But we do suggest that Any Eastern Aryan who identifies with Aryanity should form an Eastern Aryan Church based upon the Doctrine of Aryanity, and work toward taking back the racial destiny of the East and purifying their bloodlines through eugenics programs. In this way, a New Persia can rise as allies of the Tertium Imperium, and perhaps unite once the last remnants of admixture have been eliminated from their gene pool. For this to be feasible, the Eastern Aryans would have to declare RaHoWa against the Arabs, Mongols, and Dravidians and therefore finish what our ancestors began so long ago.

And finally a note concerning the existence of "Honorary Aryans", these are generally people who do not appear to be physically White Aryan, but through distant ancestry have Aryan or Atlantean blood and the noble Aryan traits remained dominant in their culture, such as the Japanese or Inca. Although we agree that there is the possibility for these people to attain great benefit from our spiritual system, we cannot allow them in our church, and will not proselytize to them. But perhaps if they learn about Aryanity they may advance up the ladder of spiritual evolution after death, and be blessed with an Aryan body in their next life. For this reason, we should maintain friendly relations with Honorary Aryans, though without allowing them any sort of leverage within our civilization.

-How Best to Approach a Prospect.

When proselytizing Aryanity one must develop and rely on both the gifts of intuition and reason to ascertain how likely a fellow White is to being receptive to our message of Aryan unity. The prime candidates for conversion are those racially aware Whites who already have at least a limited understanding of their racial status. At the top of the list are those who would already consider themselves White dissidents of any religion. White dissidents are our target demographic no matter how strongly they cling to their chosen religious identity. It is much easier to help those who are already racially aware that they can no more choose their race than they can choose their religion when the Prisca Theologia exists encoded in every Aryan religion. They simply need to be shown that Aryanity reflects the purified form of all Aryan religion, distilled into its primal essence for the consumption of true Aryans who crave the ambrosia of truth.

But of course, you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink as the saying goes, and you should not be overly disappointed if your hopeful prospect refuses to accept the truth. In such a case, a seed has been planted that may grow on its own in the absence of ego which is the source of cognitive dissonance. Ego identity is the biggest barrier that must be surmounted when approaching a potential proselyte, when two overbearing egos meet they repel each other like the equal polarity of two magnets. Although we know that we are righteous and our message is the unfiltered truth, the only way to trip a strong ego is to remain humble allowing the ego to fall by its own force. Meeting a confrontation by being equally confrontational toward those you are trying to save only results in them being repelled.

First, you must determine that they are at the very least open-minded enough to be receptive to our message. But there are many ways to disarm the ego of a White identitarian from another religious background and each of these religions might take a different approach. But what is universal is expressing the fact that without total Aryan unity there will be no Aryan survival, and the only way to have total Aryan unity is to accept a single monolithic cultural identity for all Aryans. Hence it is best to identify what we have in common rather than what we might disagree on theologically with a potential convert. But when it comes to theological disagreements it's best to explain in detail exactly why we have these disagreements instead of them being just nebulous disagreements. Likewise, we must express Aryanity's philosophy of Aryan perennialism and show a potential convert how each Aryan religion shares the same archetypal principles and mythos, and are thus destined to unite as one religion.

As for identifying what we do agree on in the political sphere, White dissidents all agree that Whites are under attack and must survive; in Aryanity we believe White Aryans must survive at all costs, which include abandoning religious institutions that have failed to protect our sovereignty and are thus counterproductive to our survival. Another point that all White dissidents agree on is that the Jew is the root cause of our decline; in Aryanity the Jew is named as our ancient metaphysical enemy number one and this can never be confounded as it is in Christianity or other faiths. Finally, all White dissidents agree that race mixing and invasion into our lands, combined with government infiltration via banking and media monopolies is the mechanism by which the Jew is orchestrating our genocide; in Aryanity not only do we not accept non-Whites like Christianity and even many Pagan religions, but we also accept all racially pure White Aryans, instead of being limited only to a select ethnicity of Aryans such as Nordic or Hellenic paganism.

Our exclusivity will never be questioned, hence we cannot be infiltrated or corrupted by non-Whites, and we don't have to resort to confirmation biases and other mental gymnastics to reformulate our religions into racial ones, because race is our foundational principle. As with the attempts to Aryanize the Jewish texts of the Old Testament and the Pauline texts of the New Testament by so-called Christian Identity and Christian Aryanism, this requires a level of self-deception and denialism unbecoming of a true Aryan who values truth above all things. Likewise, attempting to revive a dead religion that is now obsolete to our racial identity as one Aryan race is counter-productive to our survival as it only creates more division. Hence Aryanity has been revealed as the unified standard of Aryanism so that we don't have to regress to a more primitive understanding of religion. No matter how much we idealize the greatness of our ancestors and wish to emulate their accomplishments, we cannot go back, we can only move forward.

-How to Form an Aryan Temple?

Forming an Aryan Temple is as simple as two affirmants, who have both spoken the Affirmation of Aryanity, agreeing to meet in person to have fellowship and to praise Omnis, the Christos, and the Doctrine of Aryanity. Likewise, fellowship is also a time for study of the Doctrine, discussing spiritual matters, personal life matters, making active plans for performing personal or group spiritual practice, and to proselytize Aryanity to friends, family, associates, and strangers with the Aryan phenotype. Depending on where you are located and the political environment, these Church meetings might range from completely open to completely clandestine. Furthermore, they may take place within an affirmant's or proselyte's home, at a public park, deep in the wilderness, or in a structure specifically set aside and designated for Church business.

But understand that “the Church” is not a building, or a place, it is the congregation and the clergy as a whole and their mutual connection to the spiritual realm, whereas the designated meeting place is the “Aryan Temple”. We say “I am going to the Temple to meet with the Church”, but we never say “I am going to Temple” as “Temple” can be misassociated with the Maledictans who also use the term temple for their synagogues, rather than calling them churches. Calling a building a “church” is actually a Judeo-Christian misnomer that Aryans avoid. Aryans have practiced religion in Temples since time immemorial. All affirmants are already in the Church because it is not a place, the Aryan Church exists beyond spacetime in the Primum Aeternum, the Church is our connection to the spiritual realm, which is our true home, from whence we came to this world and where we will eventually return through ascension.

Yet there is a need for guidance as to how to structure the meeting places for The Aryan Church, and the structure of the services and rites. This of course will surely change as Aryans adapt to any circumstances our affirmants find themselves in, as Aryanity spreads. Within the Doctrine of Aryanity are instructions concerning the ideal hierarchy of the Church once it is fully established, yet during the interim there will be many missionaries who operate as free agents, spreading the word of Aryanity without necessarily reporting to or taking orders from a Bishop, especially in such cases as proselytizing in hostile territory where Temples must remain clandestine.

As more Aryan Church congregations become established throughout the occupied West, these congregations will begin to follow the hierarchical model set forth in Doctrine under Codice Clericalis, and each congregation will be overseen by a Bishop, and in turn, the Bishop will report to the central clerical hierarchy. Bishops are responsible for giving general oversight to the worldly and spiritual interests of the Church, while also seeing that the rules and regulations of the Clerical Council and the Maximus are carried out. Bishops set all clergy appointments and have the power to promote, demote, or remove any priest or priestess to or from service, They also collect money and manage property to be transferred to the Clerical Council and allocated to individual congregations.

Once the affirmants agree to meet regularly and form a Temple it is incumbent upon them to donate whatever disposable resources they have available to help their Temple prosper and to help the Church prosper as a whole. Hence, all congregants will be expected to donate whatever resources they have at their disposal to the Aryan Church starting at the Temple level, with a portion being set aside to be donated to the Bishopric so that it can be forwarded to the Clerical Council. Though there must never be a set membership fee or dues established within the Aryan Church and whatever is donated to the Church by a congregant will always be on a voluntary basis dependent on what they feel they can afford to give. No percentage of income will be set, and while the wealthiest of us will be expected to donate the most, even the poorest of Aryans are rich enough in spirit to join the congregation.

While it is expected for resources to be donated, this does not necessarily imply money or property, but can also mean manual labor, volunteering for missionary work, creating art for the church, donating time to help run church programs, etc. The Church accepts anything of value one has to give, but we will never scrutinize a member over their donation. If you do not know what you have that is of value then it must be discussed with the priest of the congregation so as to identify one’s talents, and either make use of those talents or discuss possible ways to develop those talents for service to the Church.

Although it is permissible to practice Aryanity and form a temple for worship anywhere at any time, when the time comes for a congregation to designate a permanent place of worship such as a building for services, it can realistically only be accomplished in this world with money and property. Whether renting a building, buying a building, or having a building donated, wealth is required and must be collected by the congregation for the congregation. Even by defining what is meant by donating resources, an indispensable resource will be money and property, to be made use of for the betterment of the community, hence it is entirely based upon the will of the congregation how prosperous their temple will become, and by proxy how prosperous the Aryan Church will become.

Some wealthy members may be moved to donate what many would consider vast amounts of wealth in service to our race but to them, it may only be week's wages, while other less fortunate members may be moved to donate what is perceived as a vast amount to them but is only a pittance to the wealthy man. In the Temple setting both donations should be seen equally, but Omnis sees all and will judge the heart of both the wealthy man and the unfortunate man. Those who cling to the wealth of this world, and are satiated by it are far less likely to achieve Gnosis than those who are poor and still give their last dime trusting that Omnis will provide for them.

When the time comes for Temples to be built by our people for the purpose of worship, there must be a set of basic instructions for how these temples are built that are not unnecessarily complex. First, it must be noted that all places of Aryan worship must have an altar upon which is placed the holy swastika, our holy Doctrine, and any other ritual items necessary for the service. This might be an athame and a quill for dubbing and ordination ceremonies, symbols of polar unity for marriage ceremonies such as the athame and the golden cup filled with wine, for spiritual baptisms the golden cup filled with holy water, also blood relics to honor martyrdom and sacrifice may be displayed.

Yet no icons or statues of saints nor anthropomorphic representations of archetypes should ever be displayed on the altar except during private invocation rituals. Such things can be displayed elsewhere within the temple but never prayed to or incorporated in worship services to Omnis; only symbolic representations of Divine concepts shall be used in temple ritual, for Omnis is truly Formless and Nameless, attempting to express Its Divinity with a statue or icon only serves to diminish what is incomprehensible and is an ironic act of disrespect. Any other devotional ritual to one of the many archetypes or emanations other than the recognition of the Holy Aryan Triune (Divus Pater, Divus Mater, and Divus Filius) must be done privately upon a home altar and not within the Aryan Temple.

As for the orientation of the altar and how an Aryan Temple should be constructed, in the Northern Hemisphere, it must be set in an elevated position in front of the congregation so that they are facing the most southerly point of sunrise during the Winter Solstice in honor of the birth of the Sun God Christos-Lucifer. In the Southern Hemisphere, these rules would be the same in spite of the seasons being reversed, the congregation would orient the altar to observe the Winter Solstice as it is in the North and any festivals related to the solar archetype would be observed on the same days as in the Northern Hemisphere, thus paying homage to the ancient roots of the Aryan race as descending from the North.

The main worship hall of the Temple, whether indoor or outdoor should be built in a rectangular shape, with a large window behind the altar so that the rays of the Christmas sun will shine through on the day of the birth of Our Savior, the Shining One, the Son of Man. This window should be flanked on both sides with two unequal-shaped pillars supporting an arch, symbolizing the duality of the emanations of Omnis unified as one in the form of Christos. Within or upon this window no images of an anthropomorphic nature should be shown, but it is permissible to decorate it with a swastika, an upright pentacle, or an equal armed solar cross, but not the holy symbol of the black sun, which should be placed opposite to it, either above the gate or on the doors to the entrance of the main worship hall. Outside of the entrance into the worship hall should be placed two unequal shaped pillars that stand alone supporting no archway, flanking the entrance, symbolizing the confusion of duality and lack of unity by lower men outside of the Aryan Church.

Within the hall should be enough seating or space to accommodate the congregation arranged in whichever way is deemed necessary. Other lofts, rooms, basements, tunnels, stories, hallways, breezeways, courtyards, towers, spires, domes, archways, porticos, monuments, megaliths, etc. can be attached to the main worship hall, and likewise, other buildings can be built upon the sacred Temple grounds for whatever reason they are deemed necessary. The preferred building material for an Aryan Temple is large cut stone, but other naturally sourced materials are also permissible such as wood, brick, concrete, glass, steel, and other metals. Though toxic and synthetic materials that are not derived from nature should not be used in the construction or decoration of the Temple unless a preexisting building is being rented on a temporary basis. Temples should also be built with the highest quality materials and construction with the intention of building them to last as long as possible without major renovations.

In this way, the Aryan Church will build our legacy upon this world as our great ancestors did, with monumental buildings and megalithic structures. The first of our Temples will likely be very humble, as we are a grassroots religious movement, made up of a persecuted people, in an age where legacy has been forgotten; let us always remember the oldest temples so that our descendants may look back upon the humble beginnings of the Aryan Church and marvel at what their ancestors did so that they could once again have a sovereign civilization, free from foreign corruption.

The first Temples are built upon the ruins of a failed civilization that is concealed by an illusory one, in an age where buildings are erected as fast as possible and at the lowest cost, so that the greedy Jewish capitalists can make the greatest profits from their communist tenants, off of structures that are purposefully low quality, so that the need to repair and replace them yields regular profits for other businesses that they own. An entire civilization based on the principles of legacy and pride is now in ruins and has been replaced by a synthetic civilization based on the Jewish principles of profits and planned obsolescence. May our civilization never again be manipulated by the greed of the Maledictans, and may we rebuild a legacy that will be remembered a thousand years hence.

So mote it be!

Part Two: Basic Dogma of Aryanity

-Foreword to Part Two

Within any religion are two different categories of how the religion is practiced and the beliefs those practices are based on. These two main categories are generally termed dogma and ritual, dogma being the complete set of beliefs that the religion is based upon, and ritual being a sometimes internal practice such as meditation and prayer and sometimes an outward theatrical expression of the internal spiritual practice. The basic Dogma of Aryanity is based upon “The Doctrine of Aryanity” which is the second book in the series of published works about Aryanity, which itself is based on “The Forbidden History of the Aryan Race” along with the personal revelations of the prophet of Aryanity, Orion Starfire. The dogma of Aryanity can be listed in order as twenty-two basic principles as such:

Dogma:

- 1: Omnis is the singularity of the all
- 2: Omnis is the one true God of all
- 3: The Sun God is our tutelary god
- 4: Christ is the Sun God archetype
- 5: Christ is an Omnis incarnation
- 6: The physical world is illusory

- 7: The Cosmos is Panentheistic
- 8: The Demiurge is a false god
- 9: All living things have spirits
- 10: Not all lifeforms have souls
- 11: Spirit/soul is not a synonym
- 12: Non Aryan souls are weaker
- 13: lower lifeforms have no soul
- 14: Aryan souls are fallen Angels
- 15: Maledictan souls are Demonic
- 16: Aryan destiny is to fully ascend
- 17: Non Aryan destiny is to be fauna
- 18: Maledictan destiny is to be damned
- 19: RaHoWa is our apocalyptic tradition
- 20: Aryans must always practice eugenics
- 21: All humankind should follow Aryan law
- 22: The Races must remain physically separate

These twenty-two principles are extracted and condensed from the Doctrine of Aryanity to help the student of Aryanity understand the dogma. As it is written in the Doctrine, Omnis exists as both one and all, yet paradoxically existing before time while also existing for all time. In Its form as the one-dimensional singularity, it was infinitely small, which paradoxically meant that it was infinitely large. This inversion of the singularity and Its desire to emanate reality caused it to implode which first created duality in the form of the infinite and the infinitesimal, superior and inferior, masculine and feminine, the spiritual and the physical, righteousness and malevolence, reality and illusion.

Omnis is a paradox, It is both unknowable and self-evident, It is the Nameless and Uncreated One; the source of all created things which were named by their creators. No other doctrine identifies the Nameless One as the supreme being, the ineffable, but rather other doctrines create a version of it with an ego, thus creating a Demiurge, a false god to worship in its place, given consciousness to torment the living. Yet true Aryans refuse to worship the Demiurge and instead worship the avatar of the Nameless One, the All, Omnis, in the allegorical form of the Sun God, the bringer of light and the source of life. Aryans have always recognized the Sky God/Sun God allegory as the tutelary deities of all Aryans and this reality echoes throughout history in the archetypal forms of the Father and Son deities.

EXAMPLES:

ABRAHAMIC OR JUDEO-CHRISTIANITY IE ORTHODOXY CATHOLICISM AND PROTESTANTISM (INCLUDES CHRISTIAN IDENTITY AND CHRISTIAN ARYANISM) ALSO ISLAM AND JUDAISM.

THEISM IS THE DEFAULT PERCEPTION OF DIVINITY FOR THE MAJORITY OF WESTERN RELIGION, AND STATES THAT A GOD OUTSIDE OF THE UNIVERSE CREATED THE WORLD, YET MAINTAINS HIS EXISTENCE OUTSIDE AND SEPARATE FROM HIS CREATION. THIS PERCEPTION COMES FROM THE JEWISH INFLUENCE ON THE ABRAHAMIC RELIGIONS, BUT WAS REJECTED BY THE WESTERN MYSTERY TRADITIONS SUCH AS HERMETICISM AND GNOSTICISM, WHICH VIEW THE WORLD OF THE SENSES AS EITHER PANTHEISTIC OR PANENTHEISTIC IN THAT DEITY, THE WORLD, AND THE HUMAN SOUL ARE INTRINSICALLY INTERTWINED ON THE MOST FUNDAMENTAL LEVEL.

EXAMPLES:

VARIOUS SECTS OF HINDUISM, BUDDHISM, AND JAINISM, (INCLUDES COSMOTHEISM AND CAN BE LOOSELY APPLIED TO THE CREATIVITY MOVEMENT).

PANTHEISM IS THE MOST COMMON PERCEPTION OF DIVINITY IN MANY EASTERN RELIGIONS, WHICH ARE MORE ANCIENT THAN ABRAHAMIC RELIGION. EVEN POLYTHEISTIC AND SOME HENOTHEISTIC RELIGIONS ARE INTRINSICALLY PANTHEISTIC WHERE ULTIMATE GODHEAD AND COSMOS AS A WHOLE ARE SEEN AS ONE AND THE SAME. THIS PERCEPTION STEMS FROM MORE PRIMITIVE ANIMISTIC RELIGIONS WHERE ANYTHING FROM ROCKS TO THE SKY HAS ITS OWN SPIRIT AND A KIND OF LIFE FORCE. YET THE INHERENT IMPERFECTION AND INTRINSIC SUFFERING WITHIN THE MATERIAL WORLD CANNOT BE EXPLAINED WITH SATISFACTION.

EXAMPLES:

PRIMAL AND DUALISTIC HINDUISM, (BHAKTI AND DVAITA VEDANTA) PRIMAL ZOROASTRIANISM, BOTH PAGAN AND CHRISTIAN GNOSTICISM, AND HERMETICISM.

PANENTHEISM IN CONTRAST TO THE MORE SIMPLISTIC PANTHEISM STATES THAT THE MATERIAL UNIVERSE AND DEITY ARE INDEED A PART OF ONE INFINITE AND ETERNAL DIVINE BEING BUT THAT THE MATERIAL UNIVERSE BY ITS VERY NATURE OF DUALITY IS BOTH IMPERFECT AND LIMITED IN CONTRAST TO THE PERFECT AND UNLIMITED NATURE OF THE SINGULAR GODHEAD, WHICH EXISTS OUTSIDE BUT ALSO SURROUNDING WHAT WE PERCEIVE AS THE MATERIAL WORLD. THERE ARE MANY WAYS THAT ONE MAY INTERPRET THE PANENTHEISTIC MODEL, BUT IT IS THE ONLY MODEL THAT ALLOWS FOR A SATISFACTORY EXPLANATION OF HUMAN SUFFERING

EXAMPLES:

PROTOTYPES THAT WOULD LEAD TO THE CREATION OF ARYANITY WERE POSITIVE CHRISTIANITY, ESOTERIC FASCISM/HITLERISM, AND VARIOUS FORMS OF ARIOSOPHY.

IN THE PANENTHEISTIC MODEL OBSERVED BY ARYANITY THE MATERIAL COSMOS, INCLUDING HIGHER DIMENSIONAL REALMS ARE SEPARATE FROM, BUT ALSO INTERACT WITH, THE SPIRITUAL REALM OF PURE CONSCIOUSNESS. WE CALL THESE TWO SEPARATE REALMS THE PRIMUM AETERNUM AND THE ALTERUM AETERNUM. SIMILAR IN MOST RESPECTS TO THE GNOSTIC PLEROMA AND THE KENOMA, BUT ELABORATED ON ACCORDING TO OUR OCCULT SYSTEM CONCERNING ARYAN PERRENIALISM AND WHAT WE CALL THE PRISCA THEOLOGIA OR THE ANCIENT ARYAN THEOLOGY.

Yet the Demiurge is the creator of the physical world, intrinsically evil, for intrinsic to life is imperfection, incompleteness, and hence suffering. As self-evident as suffering is as an intrinsic component to life, so too is the self-evidence that a higher reality exists beyond the realm of the senses, beyond suffering, hence two separate worlds have to exist; one spiritual and one physical. This is what the ancients called the Cosmic Egg, the yolk being the limited physical world surrounded by the infinite and eternal spiritual world. This is why the cosmology of Aryanity is Panentheistic rather than Pantheistic; we consider these two worlds to be separate but also interactive. Omnis is the All, yet the All is subject to duality in spacetime, which means Omnis allowed for the creation of the Demiurge as a necessary evil in bringing about creation and to define the light, for one cannot know bliss without the contrast of suffering.

The physical world can only exist because the Animus of the Primum Aeternum is being pulled into the physical world to create the Animus Mundi, of which provides the spiritual life force for all living things and even inanimate objects share a portion of the Animus Mundi. The Animus Mundi does not take form until there is a conscious observer, hence the difference between "Spirit" and "Soul". Our ancient shamanic animist ancestors knew that all things even rocks had spirit, that is they have a portion of the energy which makes up all reality, but this is not a soul. A soul is synonymous with consciousness, there are creatures that are animate such as plants, arthropods, and fish that aren't self-aware and simply respond to stimuli; they follow preset programming encoded in their genetics from ages of evolutionary development. These creatures do not have souls, and yet as certain vertebrates like fish and invertebrates like crustaceans have no souls, other invertebrates like the octopus' and cuttlefish do. Having a soul is determined by higher brain function and self-awareness

Everything from higher animals to the highest forms of humankind has a soul, but these souls are not equal. The snake and other reptiles are barely self-aware and have very weak animal souls, whereas an elephant is extremely self-aware and highly intelligent, but it is still an animal for it will always respond to basic instincts programmed into its genetics during periods of stress. Even certain species of humankind lack the ability to rationalize or resist primal impulses in favor of reason, hence they still have animal souls. Negroids and Australoids are examples of species of humankind who still have animal souls as they have not evolved the ability to resist their animal instincts. Even some Caucasoids and Mongoloids struggle with resisting their animal impulses in favor of reason, but those who generally can are no longer considered animals and have what we call psychic souls. The majority of Caucasoids and Mongoloids have this type of soul and are capable of making decisions based on reason.

Though the rarest type of soul is the gnostic soul, possessed only by the highest quality Caucasians, the majority of whom are known as White Caucasians, who we call White Aryans, as this is our original ethnological term for our people. Not all Whites have Gnostic souls and cannot thus be termed "Aryan" because Aryan denotes a certain level of nobility. Many dysgenic White Caucasians have family lines that have fallen into a cycle of devolution; it is these Whites whom the Aryan Church has no interest in proselytizing. The Gnostic soul has not simply the ability for rational thought and higher reason but also abstract reasoning; the Gnostic souls are the type of men and women of agency who amaze the common people with their extreme talents. Although we wish to save the White race from extinction and feel that only the White race has the ability to ascend, we also believe in eugenics, and the portion of the White race we wish to save are those who will be chosen by providence to seed the next sub-race of Aryans, and in fact already have.

We believe that at one time, or rather beyond time, all Aryan souls existed in the Primum Aeternum, and due to the celestial rebellion, our angelic souls fell to earth, due to grace we were given the chance to make amends for our karmic debt. This "angelic race" that we belong to is not originally of this world and we recognize ourselves as alien to this world, trapped in the cycle of Samsara, or reincarnation until our Karmic debt has been wiped clean by ages of struggle and suffering. As for the Mongols and other Caucasoids like Semites and Hindus, they are also of this angelic race who fell to earth, yet they are those who have fallen into dysgenics or who have forgotten their true origins such as the Mongols. But special mention must be made of the modern Jews who remain loyal to the Demiurge and have sold their bloodline in perpetuity to its Satanic incarnations which have transmuted their once angelic souls into a demonic race. This is why we call the modern Jews the Maledictan, as they are the accursed bloodline of demoniacs that traded the possibility of ascension back to the realm of the gods for a pleasurable and powerful life on earth. For this, they are our eternal enemies and must be blotted out from the book of life.

These fiends, the Maledictans are masters of deceit and revel in all forms of evil, they are the Synagogue of Satan, as the original Jews whom they appropriated their name from are now extinct. These demonic creatures the Maledictans are like chameleons and are masters of infiltration; it has been their modus operandi for six thousand years to infiltrate and undermine all things Aryan so as to prevent us from escaping this world and returning to our native paradise of the Primum Aeternum where there exists no suffering and only bliss. For this reason, we have been at war with the Maledictans since time immemorial, these wars range from physically violent wars to secret wars the casualties of which are just as grave, but the wars fought for or against the Maledictans have always been spiritual wars, and the final war is approaching. This brings us to the apocalyptic tradition of the Aryan Church and the coming Racial Holy War.

This final war will be the ultimate form of selection that will once and for all separate the true Aryans from the common dysgenic Whites, who exist parallel in post-modern times as two separate gene pools without most even being consciously aware of it. The evolutionary split between common Whites and White Aryans has been occurring slowly for thousands of years and is why our societies have always had a strict separation between the aristocrats and commoners, which resulted in a much higher population of intelligentsia per capita than any other race. Now as we see our race under attack, those with the blood of kings no matter how common their life may seem on the outside due to the circumstances of the times, have that blood memory stirring inside of them.

As the weak-minded Whites amongst us fall victim to Jewish propaganda, thus poisoning their blood with race-mixing, drugs, and medical scams, we White Aryans have a rare immunity to the poison and are finding our way through the population bottleneck. Eventually, the only Whites left will be strong-willed and intelligent White Aryans. From this point, we will continue to practice the strictest eugenics so that our race develops its full potential as biologically and spiritually superior beings within this world. In this way, we will be able to guide lower beings and their transient souls up the spiritual ladder so that the souls enslaved to create this world of illusions by the Demiurge can be freed from the fetters of their lower animal selves. We will keep all races separate as nature intended and protect the rungs of the bio-spiritual evolutionary ladder. As shepherds of the world we will become the stewards of nature and unite heaven with earth as was prophesied. Once again a golden age will be inaugurated upon this planet and all will follow Aryan law, which the ancient Eastern Aryans called Dharma.

-The Cosmic Construct

It is essential for the student of Aryanity to understand the secret nature of this world so as to have the tools to escape it. The world that we witness with the five physical senses is only a very small fraction of the Alterum Aeternum. There are many levels of the cosmos, each with its own unique attributes, but it is very important to realize that the cosmic construct is entirely constructed of potential energy and psychic manifestations originating in the minds of the souls trapped within the construct. In essence the construct is a prison for our souls that unbeknownst to these souls is actually constructed and maintained by them collectively, ie the "collective unconscious". This is why the law of attraction can alter events in spacetime, because the very fabric of spacetime is psychokinetic energy being harvested from living souls by the Demiurge to maintain the construct. This cosmic construct has ten dimensions, but the tenth dimension is simply a portal back to the first so in essence there are nine tangible levels to existence, the first being the Primum Aeternum, or what physicists call the singularity. The singularity is Omnis and is a place that is not a place beyond time, where all potential energy exists as fundamental principles.

During the current post modern age, we are approaching the end of what the ancient Eastern Aryans called the Kali Yuga, or the age of darkness. During the Kali Yuga the world is under almost complete control of the demon Kali, or what we term in the Aryan Church as Satan, the king of the world, ie the incarnation of the Demiurgus in the physical plane of spacetime. According to prophecy "heaven will come to earth” which will be essentially a hostile takeover of the construct from the Demiurgus. While the Angeli, Ascended Masters, and Christos exist in the eternal mind of Omnis, they can also use the warp and weft lines of the cosmic construct to incarnate in any time or place just as the Daemoni do. But once the final battle comes the Cosmic Christ will supplant the Demiurgus, his incarnation Satanus, and sit on “the throne of fire”. The placement of Christos and the Angeli on the right side of the circles or levels of creation simply show how they also interact with this world through the same pathways of the construct as the Daemoni do. But Christos exists within the singularity as a fundamental principle along with the principle of duality, thought, form, etc.

Principles take life in the Alterum Aeternum, but only exist as primordial fundamentals and eternal personalities in the singularity. There is an expiration date on the Alterum Aeternum that is many billions of Terran years; as souls move through the layers of sub space and sub time they gain access to different timelines. Higher levels of quantum consciousness eventually gain access to all timelines and possible beginnings. From here the only possibility is for souls that have not ascended to be reduced through chaos into their fundamental essence into the abyss, which in turn is recycled raw energy that moves back into the singularity like a fifth dimensional Möbius strip or perhaps a Taurus field. Eventually all matter and energy in the cosmos (all universes) will go cold and be reduced back to fundamental energy as it collapses into the singularity, once again becoming infinitely small, which is paradoxically infinitely large, ie a collapse of all matter, into energy, then into fundamental principles, imploding upon itself to create a new cosmos, with a new set of fundamental principles.

The chaos realm has not only all timelines and all universes from the beginning, but also all other infinite sets of beginnings and endings, the vast majority of which make no sense whatsoever to what we can perceive based off of the fundamental principles which began our cosmos. Chaos is where all creation is derived from and must descend back to. The “Big Bang”, which is a popular term amongst astrophysicists is like the heart beat of Omnis. It expands, transforms, accelerates, eventually slows as it contracts into subspace and subtime, black holes coalesce into super massive black holes then so forth, and at a certain point the cosmos contracts into a single “ultra massive black hole” (the abyss) at the end of each series of universes. It not only sucks in all matter and energy, but also time and space. The abyss contracts in upon itself becoming infinitely small and thus implodes into another series of universes with different fundamental principles or different arrangements of those principles and different beginnings. This could look completely different from our universe in every way imaginable and totally unimaginable to us. But the mind of Omnis is eternal, those who have ascended are permanently “alive” in a sense in the mind of Omnis, with consciousness and free will to experience and explore the many creations and destructions for eternity. This is the reward for ascension. Existing within Omnis forever as a distinct personality, yet always subservient to Divine Will.

Those who experience physical death before Gnosis spend a certain amount of time in Limbo, which is the veil between the worlds invisible to humans because it exists in four spacial dimensions (the fifth dimension, with the fourth being time). Although this dimension of subspace and subtime is invisible to us we can still discern its effect on spacetime, such as gravity, dark matter, and dark energy. Likewise, we can often witness the effect of disembodied souls interacting in spacetime with psychokinetic energy. The soul that has not attained Gnosis in life exists in this Limbo for a minimum of approximately three days as the soul detaches from its former body, then it can take approximately forty days for a soul to be grafted into the genetics of a fetus, but a soul can also exist in limbo for an indefinite period of time as time does not exist in Limbo. The souls who are still trapped in Samsara or the cycle of reincarnation are predestined to transmigrate into a new body to begin the cycle of life’s sufferings once again until they can break the cycle through Gnosis and be released. Limbo exists parallel to the shadow realm where the Daemoni reside as denizens, and it is them who drive the disembodied souls back into a living form. The only exception to this are those “hungry ghosts” who are so tormented by attachments to the circumstances of their previous life that not even the Daemones can drive them back into a new life. These disembodied spirits eventually become Demons themselves which will be explained later in this text, and exactly how to deal with both haunting, and demonic attacks.

-Aryan Wheel of the Year

As Aryans, our people have always observed the celestial clock and the seasons, which our wise men have used to track the mystical cycles of spacetime. The regular and novel happenings of the cosmic clock allow us to track both physical events as well as metaphysical events. But the most important reason for tracking these days is the happenings of the sun which more than anything determines life or death on this planet. Like our ancestors, we must observe the Wheel of the Year, which include its various Solstices and Equinoxes as well as its Cross Quarter Days, so that we know when to plant, when to harvest, when to store food, and for how long. In Aryanity we don't adopt the names of an ancient dead language for these days or appropriate the festivals of dead religions, but rather observe what has been universal across all Aryan cultures. Within the Aryan church, we observe nine holidays, nine being the number of eternity and rebirth.

These nine festival days begin on what we call the Aryan New Year, which is the same as the Christian Christmas, which we call Sol's day. December 25th is the true solar new year because this was traditionally the first day after Winter Solstice (according to the Julian calendar) when the sun breaks its three-day hiatus and the days begin to gradually get longer until the Summer Solstice. Hence this is the solar new year in the Northern Hemisphere, what we call the Aryan New Year. We also celebrate the Autumnal and Vernal Equinoxes, as well as the Cross quarter festivals of February 2nd, May 1st, August 1st, and October 31st, which we call Aeon's day, Mitra day, Harvest day, and Saints day respectively. These Cross Quarter Days are not the true midway points but rather the traditional ones celebrated by our ancestors, likewise, the Solstices and Equinoxes are not fixed on the Gregorian calendar and can change from year to year due to leap year, hence we use a fixed system inspired by Divus Iulius (the Divine Julius). Alternately the Solstices and Equinoxes have been given different names to reflect their nature. The Winter Solstice is called Passing Day, the Vernal Equinox is called Resurrection day, the Summer Solstice is called Sol's Glory, and the Autumnal Equinox is called Elders Day.

The meaning of these festivals is based on archetypal Aryan astro-theological mythos concerning the cycle of the sun which was also an allegory for human life. Beginning with What we call Passing Day on December 21st is the day the sun reaches its lowest point on the ecliptic in relation to the Northern Hemisphere, and the day is at its shortest interval. This is the allegorical passing away of the old sun during its three-day hiatus on the 22nd 23rd and 24th we call the Requiem as our ancestors considered this the allegorical time that the sun god sojourned in the underworld and is symbolic of the time a soul must spend in limbo before they can reincarnate into another body. The Requiem is a time to remember your loved ones who have passed and say prayers to Omnis wishing them passage into another Aryan life of ascension into the Primum Aeternum. On the 25th of December is the miraculous rebirth of the sun as the days gradually get longer. This period marks the beginning and the end of the solar year symbolizing death and rebirth. It is a time to rejoice and spend with family in celebration and gift-giving as our ancestors did since time immemorial.

The next holiday in the wheel of the year is Aeon's Day on February 2nd. This is a day to remember the passing of the Age of Pisces into the new celestial age of Aquarius and the profound lessons that this age brings us concerning the parable of the clean vessel. March 21st is Resurrection day, which was historically celebrated by pagans who worshiped the sun god as a fertility god, such as the god Attis who was crucified and resurrected himself as symbolism for the coming of spring. Of course, this allegory carried over into Christian mythos with the story of Easter. May 1st traditionally was called May Day and has been a European celebration for a long time where young people dance around the May pole. We have renamed this day Mitra Day in honor of the Sanskrit name for the sun god Mithra and his return in the prophetic Aryan Buddhist tradition of the coming Maitreya. May Day was traditionally observed as the first day of summer as the ancients placed the start of the seasons on the Cross Quarter Days, rather than the Solstices or Equinoxes.

Halfway through the Wheel of the year and we reach Sol's Glory on the 21st of June. This is a day to say prayers of thanks to the sun god (preferably outside) in any of his archetypal forms be it Christos, Lucifer, Sol Invictus, etc. for his life-giving radiance for without the sun there would be no life. August 1st is Elders Day, where we recognize those who are past their prime of life but still have much wisdom to impart upon the younger generations. September 21st is Harvest Day marking the beginning of the autumn harvest and the preparation time for winter. This date is a feast day and should be celebrated as such with friends and family. October 31st has historically been celebrated as Halloween and as Aryans, we don't wish to encroach upon the celebrations and marry making of the costume-clad children trick or treating. But in addition to this, we ask that our members light a candle in their private alter for their favorite saint on the saints list and thank them for their work and sacrifice for the White Aryan race. This date is also the birthday of Maria Orsic the famous medium of the Vril Society. This day has always been recognized as a powerful day when the veil between the world was thinnest where it was common for people to prophecy or make contact with ethereal beings. Keep this in mind as you perform your meditations.

Part Three: Basic Ritual of Aryanity

-Foreword to Part Three

Aside from the Holidays and Festivals of the Aryan calendar, we ask our converts to observe nightly prayer, prayer over meals, group prayer during religious meetings, and worship services, and also spontaneous prayer whenever the need arises. Never be bashful when it's time for prayer, Omnis the All, knows all and sees all. "So why pray at all?" you might ask; prayer fosters a conscious connection with the Divine, making a daily effort to connect with the Divine source helps us to develop a connection with the divine. Without prayer and other forms of meditation and spiritual practice this mystical connection atrophies and we become prone to falling into the delusion of materialism. Hence the importance of prayer and its power cannot be overstated. When we pray, we must not pray for things that we want no matter how righteous our desires may be, we must pray for Divine will to be done through our lives and acceptance of the outcome. We must pray for our attachments to worldly things to be diminished so that we can experience freedom from suffering, not temporary happiness per se, but Bliss, which is the absence of spiritual suffering.

When we pray at night let us pray for forgiveness of daily sins and ask for strength in resisting our sinful nature, let us also ask for divine protection for the Church and its Holy People, the Aryans. We already know that it is Divine will for our people to exist, thus continuing to ask for protection from evil and enemies is permissible as long as it is followed by thanks to Omnis for revealing the truth to us. Praying over meals requires that we first give thanks that we have one more meal to preserve our life so as to do the will of Omnis. We must ask Omnis to release us from the karmic debt incurred by consuming other lifeforms that exist in the Animus Mundi simply to keep ourselves alive, follow this request with the promise to reciprocate, by being a vessel of divine providence upon earth.

All prayer must end by invoking the Ancient Egyptian name of Amen (pronounced ah-men and not ay-men) or with the phrase “so mote it be”. The word “Amen” has come to be known to the Christians as meaning “so be it” in Hebrew, but this is not where it was actually derived from. In ancient times prayer was always accompanied by the invocation of a “name of power” and was believed that this charged and bound the power of the prayer. Christians using Amen at the end of prayer is a forgotten remnant and clue to the secret nature of Christ as the Egyptian sun god. Though Protestants have come to commonly mispronounce the word, Catholics and Orthodox Christians still know how to pronounce it, they just don’t know the real reason for this practice and where it stems from.

Similarly, it is common to see Eastern Orthodox and Catholic icons of Christ holding his fingers in a specific way, with his thumb touching the ring finger, Orthodox Christians invented an explanation for this tradition stating that the hand gesture is symbolic of Christ’s initials when in reality this hand gesture is the Aryan Surya Mudra, or Mudra of the Sun, which yet again shows the connection of early Christians with Eastern Aryan mysticism and the solar archetype. These mudras can be used during prayer and meditation to embody the planetary energies, and likewise to have a specific effect on the bio-energy pathways within the hands which can activate the energy vortices. Even the commonly accepted Christian prayer hands with palms touching and finger extended is the Aryan Namaste, descending from the Vedas, and used as a salutation to divinity. Much has been written on the properties and practices of the Mudras so we won’t cover it here, but we encourage the Practicing Aryan to do further research if they are curious, and wish to integrate Mudras into their spiritual practice.

Personal altars can be set up in a devotional space within ones home. The altar should be a small table placed in an uncluttered corner of a room, it should always remain clean, be covered with a ceremonial cloth, and have the holy swastika as the primary symbolic emblem, but other symbolic representations of Omnis, Christos-Lucifer, or any of the other archetypes that one may be working with in their spiritual practice. Though one must never put an anthropomorphic or an animal representation of a deity on the altar. When saying a prayer for a saint, we do not pray to that saint for we don't know if they have ascended, any devotional picture, candles, or incense that one uses in their remembrance of the saints must not be put on one's alter but elsewhere in ones living space, perhaps a mantle or dresser.

Other items that one may wish to acquire for any fully equipped altar, are a candlestick, incense, herbs, a cup for water or red wine, prayer beads, the black-handled athame knife or sword, the quill pen, ink well, salt, unbound parchment, a mystical journal, a personal seal and sealing wax. Each of these items has a different ritual purpose which will be explained further. One may also wish to have a chest for any relics one has acquired for religious purposes.

Each one of these items has a different ritual purpose, and it is not always necessary to perform a ritual for the sake of elevating one's consciousness. Rituals should always be devotional, and never evocational but always invocational, which means any tutelary archetype that you invite into your life in the presence of your altar should never be given demands. Demands and evocations are for demonologists whom we reject and rebuke. The Demonic archetypes are listed in the Doctrine purely for educational and meditational purposes so as to provide contrast to the Angelic archetypes. We do not give demands to demons like the Maledictans who are servants to the Demiurge, for demanding that a Daemoni assist you is by definition left-hand path Magick. Just as the Maledictans cannot be trusted and entrap people through temptation, so too do the Daemoni.

-Ritual and Ceremonial Items

The black-handled athame knife or sword: The history of the word "athame" as a term for a ritual knife is shrouded in controversy and has been wrongly appropriated by modern witchcraft cults. The term athame is actually a corruption of the Latin word "artavus" which traditionally is a quill knife used to sharpen the end of the quill pen, and was a ritual item used in medieval Solomonic rituals. Our use of this term to refer to our ritual/ceremonial knife/sword has deep symbolic meaning and is included within the sigil of our first knightly order. The symbolic meaning of the quill knife has to do with the passage in Revelation 19:15 depicting the sharp sword coming out of the mouth of Christos of which he uses to smite the nations. Likewise, our use of the term represents the famous quote of Edward Bulwer-Lytton, "the pen is mightier than the sword". Edward Bulwer-Lytton was the author of "The Coming Race", where the concept of Vril is derived.

The use of the athame in our rituals and ceremonies reflects this deep meaning that we should utilize the power of the holy word (Verbo/Logos) which has more power than even the sharpest sword, for sharp words are what precedes the raising of armies (s-word is an allegory for the holy word-s). But the use of ritual knives and swords in the various Aryan traditions is well attested in history such as the East Aryan "Kila" also known as the Tibetan "Purba" which is a three-sided spike knife used in demonic exorcisms. Likewise, the Magi used the "Kaplo" knife or even the forefinger to draw ritual furrows for the purpose of protecting ritual space from evil. The only requirement for the fabrication of the personal ritual knife or ceremonial sword is that it be made of high-quality non-synthetic materials, have a black handle, and be extremely sharp.

The cup for water or red wine: An essential element of the Aryan altar is the cup or chalice, this cup can be anything from a simple glass or ceramic cup, to an elegant golden chalice. The purpose of the ritual item is more important than the item itself. Though certain items and materials are prohibited as ritual items, the cup and any other ritual item must not be made of synthetic material such as plastic. Natural materials such as glass, ceramic, wood, stone, or metal must be used. The ritual items of each practitioner's personal altar are unique, and tend to have a special meaning.

The candlestick and white candle: The number of candlesticks is not important unless the number is being used to symbolize a certain number of archetypes or days of the ritual or ceremony. But the use of a side-mounted candelabrum such as a menorah is prohibited because of its association with the Jewish religion. Likewise, the color of the candles should be white preferably to symbolize the purity of the White Aryan race, but in lieu of white candles, all other colors can be used and can symbolize different things such as the 7 colors of the bio-energy vortices, or the layers of the spiritual body, etc. Yet the use of black candles is prohibited due to the association of black candles with black magick rituals and satanism.

Incense, oils, and herbs: Pure frankincense is the incense of choice and is symbolic of purity, and is likewise what the legendary Magi brought to Christos in the allegorical nativity story of the gospels. Burning incense or herbs is used to cleanse the ritual space and has been used by many cultures in religious ceremonies such as saining and the use of the censer. Likewise, the oil of choice for anointing is myrrh essential oil diluted with olive oil. One may also mix herbs or the ashes of sacred words of power written on parchment paper, and burned in a ritual fire to the anointing oil for specific types of anointing such as the anointing of holy warriors who are preparing to go into battle. Much has been written as to the occult properties of incense, essential oils, and herbs, and an extensive list of their properties will not be included here. But the practitioner of Aryanity is encouraged to educate themselves as to these arcane properties and integrate them into their personal rituals

Prayer beads: Traditionally the Mala beads of the eastern Aryans are comprised of 108 beads representing the 108 carnal desires, while the Western Aryan prayer beads range generally from 59 (rosary) to 105 (Pater Noster). The Western Aryan prayer beads of the Aryan Church have 99 beads connected by the holy swastika, for 99 contains the mystery of eternity. 99 is the last double-digit set of multiples of nine, which is the sacred number of eternity, for all multiples of nine will thus reduce back to nine. 99 is likewise a multiple of 11 which is the first master number, together the number symbolizes azoth, which is the ancient alchemical principle of the mercurium, the first and the last. Connected with the swastika creates 100 which is the number of completion as it reduces back to one. The Aryan prayer beads are called the Jugum, or simply Juga beads (pronounced with a soft j), as the prayer beads help our souls to yoke our animal form toward a higher purpose.

The quill pen and ink well: An essential writing implement for certain rituals is the quill pen and ink well. This would be used in certain rituals for writing words, names, or sigils of power upon unbound parchment, or even directly on the skin. It would also be used for writing in one's mystical journal personal experiences, questions, or meditations regarding one's spiritual practice.

Unbound parchment and mystical journal: Other essential items along with the quill pen and ink well it is of course necessary to obtain paper to write on. Natural parchment paper is ideal but any paper will do as long as it is not synthetic or stone paper as it must be flammable. As for one's personal mystical journal, something well-made and hardbound is ideal as the journal must last a lifetime or longer.

Personal seal and sealing wax: The personal seal is not a necessary item for all practitioners, but it is necessary for officially ordained high-ranking clerics to send communiques. As for one's personal seal, this can be anything from a family crest to a personal monogram or even the seal from a mystical ring such as the Abraxas stones of the ancient Gnostics. In ritual, this seal would be used to bind the parchment that has the words or sigils of power written on it and can be carried upon one's person or stored in a safe place as a talisman.

Salt, minerals, and metals: Another nonessential class of ritual items that the practitioner may choose to explore and employ in their personal rituals are minerals and metals. Much has been written in the various occult manuals as to the arcane properties of various stones and metals, including the celestial body that corresponds with their vibratory frequency, the elemental value of the item, etc. An extensive list of their properties will not be included here. But the practitioner of Aryanity is encouraged to educate themselves as to these arcane properties and integrate them into their personal rituals. With that stated special mention must be made of salt. Salt has been used in Aryan religious and folk practices since ancient times to ward off evil. In fact, entire cathedrals and chapels have been carved out of salt mines. Rock salt is well known as a curative and is used the world over for its purification properties. Salt has a neutral ionic charge which gives it the unique ability to repel negative energy and contain positive energy within a ritual space. It should be used to mark out the boundaries of one's ritual space during consecration.

Part Four: Aryan Rites, Rituals, and Ceremonies

-Foreword to Part Six

Aryanity is a religious movement that seeks to establish a monolithic cultural paradigm for all Aryans, and only for Aryans as a unified standard to unite us as a single unbreakable fasces. We draw from the rich traditions of our people and pull together the shared beliefs and practices of all Aryan religions to provide this new paradigm. To be a Practicing Aryan requires that one not only studies and agrees with Aryanity but also practices it. One practices Aryanity by sharing it with friends and family, by studying the works of the Aryan saints, by being an active force in preserving one's people, and by following the moral codes set forth in the Doctrine of Aryanity. But there is another form of religious practice that Aryans also employed for millennia to hone and crystalize their explicit ethno-religious identity. For this reason, the following rites, rituals, and ceremonies were designed to transform the doctrinal theories of Aryanity into a functional religious praxis. In Aryanity we consider rites to be markers of different phases in one's life, while rituals are practices that are done in private, whereas ceremonies are rituals performed in a group setting.

-Consecrating the Ritual Space

When establishing one's personal or ceremonial altar, great care must be taken to observe the consecration of the ritual space so as to make it known to any entity watching that the ritual space is holy ground. Any negative energy, lingering disembodied spirits, or demonic entities must be cleared from the space and prevented from returning. If one suspects the presence of a demon it may take more than a simple consecration to clear the presence and an actual exorcism may need to be performed by a bonafide holy man, but in all other cases, the consecration ritual should be effective. Before placing the altar in its permanent or temporary place one must perform a "saining" of the space, which is the use of the ritual censer to permeate the ritual space with the smoke of the sacramental incense, thereby imbuing the area with its positive energetic charge. While saining the space one must walk with the ritual censer in a counter-clockwise motion around the ritual space. If the space is very large for group ceremonies or for consecrating temple grounds, starting from the middle of the space and walking in a counter-clockwise spiral is recommended until one reaches to boundaries of the ritual space. During this "procession of consecration" one must recite the prayer of consecration as many times as is necessary to complete the saining. The prayer is actually a short litany designed to announce the space as holy ground:

"By the will of Omnis, this space is now consecrated as holy ground; may everything evil, immoral, and unnatural depart, so mote it be!"

Once the boundaries of the ritual space have been sained the "closing" of the ritual space must be performed by sprinkling unprocessed salt around the boundaries of the ritual space in a clockwise motion while reciting the prayer of closing:

"By the power of Christos may this space be protected from all that is evil, immoral, and unnatural, Amen!"

The final step in consecrating the ritual space is the "charging" of the ritual boundaries by use of the athame or the two index and middle fingers. This requires walking around the boundaries of the ritual space a third and final time in a counter-clockwise motion holding the athame or fingers pointing to the boundaries of the ritual space while focusing one's psychic energy toward the boundaries of the space. While performing the charging of the ritual space one should recite the following verse:

“By the holy spirit of Omnis, use me as a conduit of your will and charge this holy ground with your power, Amen!”

Upon the conclusion of the charging of the ritual space, the consecration of the holy ground is complete and one is free to establish their altar and perform all rites, rituals, and ceremonies indefinitely within the ritual space.

-Aryan Affirmation Ritual (The Becoming)

The Affirmation of Aryanity must be recited by any prospective member of the Aryan Church upon choosing to join. This affirmation cannot be taken lightly, and if one has any lingering doubts whether they can be rationalized or not, should not speak the affirmation. Within the Aryan Church, we do not wish for anyone to enter who is lukewarm. One must know and have complete faith that the path of Aryanity is their chosen life-path until death. Those who are complete in their faith must simply speak the words to affirm it.

I, _____ hereby make this solemn affirmation before the Divine presence which oversees all things, the infinite source of all wisdom, Omnis. I swear under penalty of damnation that I am an Aryan, with no ties either by blood or debt to the Jewish nation. I also swear allegiance to my Aryan people and fully embrace Aryanity as my religion. I thereby vow, to live my life as a Practicing Aryan, to reject the evil and degeneracy of the post-modern age, to be an active force in saving my people from genocide and extinction, and to work toward fulfilling the prophetic vision of Aryanity and the Aryan Imperium. Hence, I hereby proclaim my devotion to Omnis, the Church of Aryanity, its Doctrine, and Edicts. I ask for Omnis to fill my cup to overflowing so that I may share the Divine Wisdom and our spiritual destiny with fellow Aryans. May our race unite under the banner of Aryanity, and thenceforth never again be unsure of our identity, nature, and destiny as One Race with One Creed. I make this affirmation of my own volition and not under duress or for corrupt purposes. Hail Omnis and Ad Victoriam.

-Aryan Ablution Ritual (Cleansing the Cup)

The most important parable of Aryanity is the parable of the clean vessel, as it reflects the methodology for attaining Gnosis while also reflecting our transition into the new celestial age of Aquarius, and therefore the new paradigm. The cleansing of the cup ritual is a play drama of an inward occurrence, where one asks Omnis to take complete control of their life, so that they may become vessels of Divine providence. For this to occur one must work to subdue their own personal will so that Divine will can take over. The first phase of this is the performance of ascetic rituals such as fasting, celibacy, abstinence from drugs and alcohol, etc. so as to quiet the instinctual impulses programmed into our psyche by the Demiurge that keep our souls bound to this world of the senses.

Once our rational soul takes control of our animal self and tames it thus, we begin this cleansing of the cup, as we begin to feel the power of Omnis filling our life, we become baptized in the Holy Spirit of Sponsa Sapientis who fills our cup to overflowing. We begin to notice synchronicities at an exponential rate; signs that lead us toward actions that we may not have taken otherwise. For those Aryans who find it difficult to live an ascetic life and subdue the passions, we recommend the use of our ablution ritual to affect the law of attraction toward taking the first steps of living a clean life. This ritual is accompanied by prayer which must be spoken aloud.

Prior to the ritual one will collect a clean small pitcher or other small container such as a flask and fill it with purified water or water from a natural source that is drinkable. One may also choose to prepare Frankincense water by steeping a small amount of frankincense resin (1 gram) in hot water and strain the night prior to ritual. On the day of the ritual, once the altar is established with the cloth and the holy swastika, one will then place a cup on the altar, this cup can be gold, white, or clear in color. The cup is symbolic of both the physical and spiritual bodies. One must then light incense of pure frankincense resin, and anoint the forehead with a drop of myrrh oil while reciting these words:

“Holy Christos, Morning Star, illuminate my way.”

Then one lifts the pitcher of clean water and holds it above the incense smoke and recites these words:

“May Omnis sanctify this water and make it holy.”

With the pitcher made into holy water one slowly pours the water reciting the following verse:

“Now this holy water becomes the pure blood of Christos the Sanctorum Sanguinem; may my robes be washed clean as pure White linen, Amen!”

The final task is dipping one's fingers in the cup and touching the crown of the head with the holy water.

This is a ritual ablution or baptism. Baptism does not have to be a complete immersion in water, for the true meaning of the allegory of baptism is the cleansing of one's psycho-spiritual energy so that it may receive the flow of Divine spiritual energy. This is why in the Gospels it was stated that Christos would baptize his followers in spirit and that upon his baptism the holy spirit “stayed with him” because he was spiritually pure. Many experience the power of the Holy Spirit, whom we know to be Sponsa Sapientis or Sophia, she is what provides the connection with the Primum Aeternum and the eternal reservoir of spiritual power therein. Though those who have felt the ecstasis of the Holy Spirit know that this feeling of pure bliss and invincibility rarely lasts long. This is because pure water cannot stay pure in a dirty cup. The more one purifies themselves through strict psycho-spiritual discipline the longer and more frequent these ecstatic states will occur, thus filling your life will Divine Bliss and the power of Divine Will.

-Aryan Marriage Ceremony (Blood Binding)

Within the Aryan Church, marriage is considered the most important institution as this is the foundation for the creation of an Aryan family unit. The Aryan family is the microcosm of Aryan civilization, healthy children and healthy families are what a strong civilization is composed of. The rampant family dysfunction of the post-modern era has been the primary cause of the undermining of Western civilization as the family is the foundation of a civilization. Of course, we are aware of the reasons for this dysfunction and the Maledictan program attacking the Aryan family. Through the introduction of poisonous ideologies such as feminism and Marxism, along with the promotion/normalization of the drug culture and sexual degeneracy, the traditional family values that kept Western civilization strong for thousands of years were eroded.

When an Aryan couple is married they must come together knowing full well that marriage is intended to be a life-long institution and that both sides of the marriage, while not being equal in nature, must be equally devoted to each other's needs. It must also be understood that marriage is a union of opposites, whose nature is to seek neutrality and harmony. With this understanding, both members of a union must accept and embrace their role as one side of the dualistic force, one must be active and one passive, one superior and one inferior. It is of course the natural role of an Aryan man to be the active leadership force of any marriage and family, while the Aryan woman must accept the natural role of passive and submissive when following the instructions of her husband.

When these opposing forces are out of balance it creates an unnatural state of dissonance which can create a feedback loop of greater and greater discord in a marriage. A wife creates dissonance when she takes on the role of the man and attempts to lead the marriage or go against the moral and spiritual guidance of her husband, whereas dissonance is created by the man when he is indecisive and lacks strength of character to lead and provide. In such cases, marriages are doomed to fail due to built-up resentments and a lack of respect that will eventually break the psyche of one or both partners. Often times if the dysfunction in the marriage is identified after its been allowed to exist for too long the habitual behaviors can't be reversed because they've dug a rut too deep for one side or the other to escape from. Hence both sides need to be aware of these potential pitfalls prior to taking vows of marriage and promise to respect each other's natural role.

With that stated, it is best for the couple to be counseled by an Aryan priest as to the gravity of marriage and the proper marital roles of each spouse prior to taking vows. Once priestly counseling has been done, and the marriage is given holy blessing the ceremony can be conducted at the couple's convenience, at a location of their choosing. The day prior to the wedding it is recommended to do a wedding rehearsal so that the bride and groom know what to expect on the day of the vows. The Aryan priest is responsible for setting up the altar at the location of the wedding ceremony, but a specific orientation of the altar is not necessary depending on the location of the ceremony. The necessary components of the ceremony are the altar, the altar cloth, the holy swastika, the cup, the athame, and red wine for the cup.

The following ceremony does not include any elements of the wedding prior to or after the actual ceremony performed by the Aryan priest, which is left to the couple and their families to determine. Before the ceremony begins the groom and his best man must be standing in front of the altar positioned on the right side of the altar. Upon the arrival of the bride and her father (or father figure) to the location of the marriage vows, the bride is directed by her father to stand at the left side of the altar facing the groom. The cup and athame should be placed at the rear of the altar, on the left and right of the altar, with the wine bottle beside the cup. The groom is responsible for bringing the rings which remain in the possession of the best man until the conclusion of the ceremony. The Aryan priest standing behind the altar facing the couple then positions the cup in the center of the altar and pours the wine into the altar cup and recites the words:

“The blood carries the soul of a people, may it remain pure for all time.”

Once the Aryan priest fills the cup and sets the wine bottle back in its place he will recite the words:

“The Aryan woman is the vessel of the Sanctorem Sanguinem, the Holy Blood of our people, while the Aryan man is its protector.”

With this the Aryan priest must grab the athame while holding it with two hands pointing down in the direction of the cup, the Aryan priest recites the words:

“These two children of the Aryan race now come together to become a link in the eternal chain.”

With this, the Aryan priest inserts the tip of the blade of the athame in the cup and places the blade to the side. Once the athame is back in its place on the altar and with the cup filled with wine, sanctified by the blade, in its proper place in the center of the altar, the Aryan priest must recite the words:

“come now daughter of man, unite your blood with a son of man.”

With this, the matron of honor retrieves the cup from the altar and gives it to the bride, and then returns to her place. The bride, holding the cup with two hands offers a drink to the groom, which he accepts. With this, the groom takes the cup and it is retrieved by the best man and placed back on the altar and returns to his place. The couple then takes their wedding vows in turn, first the groom and then the bride, repeating the words after the Aryan priest and answering, “I will”:

“I (name) take you (name) to be my wedded wife/husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse; for richer for poorer; in sickness and in health; to love and to cherish; till death do us part, according to Divine Law; and to that I give you my promise”.

The best man gives both rings to the minister to be blessed. The bride’s ring is then given to the groom, who places it on the third finger of her left hand and repeats the words:

“With this ring I make you my wife, in the presence of the Divine.”

The bride then repeats the same words (replacing wife with husband) as she places the groom’s ring on his finger. The Aryan priest will speak a few words to declare that the couple is now husband and wife: the bride and groom kiss.

This concludes the ceremony and the couple are thus allowed to depart from the altar.

-Aryan Dubbing Ceremony (Blood Oathing)

The following dubbing ceremony is only a general overview of the actual ceremony and not the complete guide to becoming a knight of the Aryan Church, which is clandestine in nature. To learn how to become an Aryan knight one must ask an Aryan knight. The Aryan dubbing ceremony is only to be performed by a knight of an official order of the Aryan Church, and only after the customary vetting, oath, and degree system of the knightly orders. The only event in which this rule may be deviated from is in extreme military emergencies where the knights can’t be called forth to protect the Church or its interests and militias must be organized out of the layman of the temples. In such a case the bishop or head priest may choose members of the laity to dub who will be expected to fill the responsibilities of this office as the guardians of their temples and the leaders of their militias. An Aryan knight is expected to live according to the code of chivalry.

We must reinstitute a code of chivalry amongst White Aryans like the noble knighthoods of medieval Christendom, from which our ancestry hails. Chivalry arose from an idealized German custom, and over time its meaning was generalized to emphasize ideals such as the knightly virtues of honor, courtly love, and courtesy. Yet the knight’s code of chivalry was a moral system that stated all knights should protect others who cannot protect themselves, such as the crippled, widows, children, and the elderly. All knights needed to have the strength and skills to fight wars in the Middle Ages; they not only had to be strong but they were also extremely disciplined and were expected to use their power to protect the weak and defenseless.

Knights vowed to be loyal, generous, and “of noble bearing”. Knights were required to tell the truth at all times and always respect the honor of chaste women. Knights not only vowed to protect the weak but also vowed to guard the honor of all fellow knights. They always had to obey those who were placed in authority over them. Knights lived by honor and for glory. Knights were to fear the Divine and maintain the virtues of religion on earth. Knights always kept their faith and never turned their back on a foe. They always completed any enterprise begun, and never failed to follow through with their word of honor.

If we are to take back our civilization and rebuild strong societies, we must first rebuild our moral fortitude as a people one man at a time. We must rebuild the traditional family structure of the nuclear family model, which cherishes lifelong marriage. We must teach our children to respect their elders and to respect traditional morals, because this is what made our civilization strong in the past. These traditional values are based on the code of chivalry which is based on specific vows each knight was expected to take and keep. Henceforth is the code of Aryan vows that all knights must live by, known as the 7 vows of chivalry:

1. I vow to be a vessel of providence.

I must always be loyal to my higher power (God/Deity) and never succumb to doubt in the will of the almighty that our people are destined for greatness.

2. I vow to be a warrior of truth.

I must always be truthful to my peers and to those in true authority, yet it is justifiable to stay silent or even to give false testimony when interrogated by the enemy.

3. I vow to be a paragon of loyalty.

I must always be loyal to my people and never do any dealings with other races that would be counterproductive to the advancement of my people.

4. I vow to be a champion of charity.

I must always give aid to those of my people who are in need, especially a fellow knight, if it is within my ability to provide that aid, likewise, I must defend those of my people who are unable to defend themselves.

5. I vow to be a pillar of virtue.

I must always live a life of moral fortitude and endeavor to abstain from the sexual perversions that plague this world due to the decadence of foreign cultures.

6. I vow to be a pinnacle of honor.

I must never steal from a member of my race, which includes partaking in monetary schemes like usury and gambling; yet taking back the inheritance that was stolen from us by other races or traitors is justifiable.

7. I vow to be a minister of righteousness.

I must always endeavor in life to teach the truth to my children and my people. Likewise, I must also endeavor to break the conditioning of my folk who have been victimized by Jewish propaganda.

Once these vows are understood and the knight has followed through with the rest of the process of the degree system set forth in the secret membership manuals of the knightly order the dubbing ceremony can be performed. It is recommended to do the induction ceremony in person and to have the prospective knight kneel on his right knee while the highest-ranking knight speaks the words, but this is not always practical. When performed in person the following words are recited by the highest authority present; using a ceremonial blade called the “athamé” (black-handled dagger or sword), or in absence of the blade his right two fingers (index and middle finger) he touches the right shoulder of the newly dubbed Knight and orders him to rise.

The officer performing the knighting asks the prospective knight to kneel and says:

“With the power vested in me, by the Maximus of the Aryan Church (or highest ranking officer of the order), I hereby regularly dub you a knight of the (state knightly order).”

The knight or priest then taps the shoulder and says:

“Rise Sir (insert name here), who will be known as (insert pseudonym here).”

This basic dubbing ceremony may be altered to reflect any new knightly orders that are formed as the Church deems necessary. But all knightly orders must be officially sanctioned by the Church leadership.

-Aryan Demonic Exorcism (Burning Shadows)

Demonic spiritual attacks come in three different forms, demonic obsession, demonic oppression, and demonic possession. The Daemoni are disembodied spirits who either never had physical bodies, have a higher physical form and can leave their physical body at will and return, or were barred by the Demiurgus from ever taking physical form again within spacetime. Their souls exist in a plane parallel to this physical world that is still a part of the Alterum Aeternum but in the higher dimensions of subspace/subtime. The “higher” dimensions exist essentially behind the scenes of the simulacrum of spacetime, and the Daemoni exist in between worlds, in what we call the “Shadow Realm”. They are fully able to exist and interact in the physical world without being seen by most of humankind, except for those of us who have extremely sensitive minds, or if they choose to show themselves to their victims. In most cases, they do not reveal their presence and prefer rather to “whisper” thoughts into their victims' minds so that the victim cannot distinguish between a demonic thought and one origination from their own mind. This whispering of thoughts is the first level of demonic attack and is called demonic obsession. Demonic obsession is quite common, and in the post-modern age, it has become so widespread that demonic mind control accounts for a large degree of choices being made in people’s lives, and has led to the dire circumstances we have witnessed with the mass derangement of the western population during the post-modern era.

The preferred victims of a demon are those who are sensitive enough psychically to be able to receive malevolent influence, but not sensitive enough or experienced enough in controlling their psychic abilities to be able to recognize it as a foreign influence. These demons are parasites, not having physical bodies they must “feed” off of the psychic energy released by the living to continue their existence within the physical world while disembodied. Whereas for most living beings the energy that supplies our souls with spiritual sustenance is actually generated by our bodies. The physical body is like a battery for the entrapped soul while the soul is trapped in the physical world via the cycle of reincarnation, known to the Eastern sages as Samsara. The only other source of spiritual energy comes from the Primum Aeternum, which can be connected to through mystical discipline and the process of ecstasis as described in the Doctrine of Aryanity. These demonic beings are permanently cursed to never ascend to the Primum Aeternum and some are likewise cursed to never be reborn, but are condemned to exist for eternity in the shadow realm. The exception to this are races with demonic souls like the Maledictans, and what we know as the Greys who have been either turned into demoniacs, or granted physical bodies to carry out specific tasks for their master, the Demiurgus. There are other demonic races to be clear, but the Alterum Aeternum is monolithic, with so many planets and parallel realities that it would be futile to attempt to list them all here. The races that directly interact with Humankind on a re

Some of them are very ancient and were once in the company of the Angeli before time. They are those who fell during the celestial war and were cursed for their participation. These high-ranking Daemoni are listed in the demonic hierarchy within the Doctrine of Aryanity and have been known to our ancestors by many different names since before recorded history. Beneath these “demonic generals” are legions upon legions of lower demons who for one reason or another were cursed to be spiritual parasites. The demonic generals rarely spiritually attack humans but rather are rewarded by the Demiurgus for leading their legions toward successfully harvesting the psycho-spiritual energy from the living, and likewise preventing the higher Aryan souls from ascending. When they do choose to spiritually attack a person they have the entire power of their legions at their disposal, and only attack those who are spiritually gifted to prevent them from attaining Gnosis. This leads to the second level of demonic attack known as demonic oppression.

Demonic oppression is characterized by the “whispering” of thoughts becoming “shouting”, and the thoughts are so far out of the norm and malevolent that it becomes obvious to the victim that the thoughts are not their own. This demonic oppression leads to horrible torment for those who have genuinely good souls capable of resisting such thoughts. Yet for some, the torment is too much and they lose the ability to resist the power of the evil thoughts being projected into their minds and the demon slowly begins to take over their life. The Jewish industry of psychology has come to label many victims of demonic oppression as schizophrenics and psychopaths who “hear voices” in their heads, which has led to discrediting the traditional religious explanations of these paranormal events. While the drugs they use to quiet the voices are often effective, these drugs also result in the victim’s level of sensitivity to psychic phenomena being drastically decreased, which makes it unlikely that they will be able to attain Gnosis.

Generally speaking when it comes to the practice of sorcery, which is the use of drugs or what the ancients called “potions” to induce a psycho-spiritual effect, drugs that are known as “downers” tend to have the muffling effect on psychic phenomena, whereas drugs known as “uppers” or “psychedelics” can greatly enhance psychic ability temporarily. Yet the path of sorcery is wrought with many dangers, such as addiction, and though we make mention of it here, it is not advocated by the Aryan Church except in extreme cases. Through mystical practice a highly sensitive individual may come to learn how to quiet the shouting voices of demons and other telepathic interference, which drown out the sound of the Verbo; the celestial harmony, and as a side-effect to this practice one learns to harness supernatural abilities such as telepathy and clairvoyance. Though one who is a student of mysticism and is successfully learning how to control their psyche becomes an even more sought-after target for demonic attack, which leads us to the third form of demonic attack known as demonic possession.

Full demonic possession is very rare, and in many cases where one might assume a person is demonically possessed, they may actually be demonically oppressed, which is also a grave situation but with more hope of saving the victim. Full possession in most cases leads to the early death of the host body, and generally only occurs after a long period of demonic oppression, where the resistant soul eventually succumbs to the torment of the demon and surrenders themselves to it. But in other rare cases, extremely sensitive people who begin to experiment with occult practices in the absence of proper guidance may also suffer possession while in a drug-induced altered-state, or while astral projecting during the dream state while the physical body is unoccupied by the soul. People who suffer from a condition known as sleep paralysis are actually victims of attempted demonic possession or demonic attack while in the dream state. Victims who experience sleep paralysis throughout their lives are generally the type with extreme spiritual abilities and become a target for demonic parasites, in which the beings of the Shadow Realm attempt to enter their body while they are in astral or cause so much terror to the sensitive that an extreme amount of spiritual energy is lost to the demon.

The victims of sleep paralysis universally describe uncannily similar experiences that are highly detailed and specific. Generally, the victims describe a “shadow person” or “shadow being”, generally a humanoid figure made of shadows, usually with no face, or like black mist with glowing red eyes like tiny red coals. Some of these shadow beings are described as wearing clothes and even what appears as a brimmed hat, other times they are simply described as a figure without clothes and no genitalia; like a solid black mannequin. They have even been given various names by the popular culture surrounding the phenomenon, such as “hat man”, “no face”, “the hag”, and “hooded man”, but these creatures have been plaguing our souls since literally the beginning of time, and many ancient accounts from cultures around the world describe them, and even paintings from cave paintings to classical paintings depict them. The famous painting called the “nightmare” actually depicts the shadow demon on a sleeping woman’s chest, with the “nightmare horse” with glowing red eyes in the background. The “mare” of “nightmare” comes from mære, an Old English term for an evil spirit that was supposed to settle on a sleeper's chest and cause a feeling of suffocation and was later confounded with the word mare. But they have been given many names, in the Aryan Church we call them the Daemoni, or simply demons.

There are three classes of demoniacs, ie a demonically possessed person, a first class possession is one in which the child is born possessed due to certain evil occult practices. This is the case of the Maledictus Sanguinem, who sold their bloodline in perpetuity to the Demiurge so that some of its most powerful demonic entities could inhabit this world as something resembling a human, ie the twisted and ugly form of the Jew. These demoniacs tend to interact in public as if they are just a persecuted minority, but secretly they are the product of ancient Satanic rituals, and privately still perform these rituals such as human sacrifice, blood drinking, orgies, child molestation, homosexuality, and anything profane. They are what Christ Jesus calls the “Synagogue of Satan” in the book of Revelation, who back in the first century and prior were the common Edomite Jews who came to supplant the original tribe of Judah, thus appropriating the name “Jew” as a cover for their ancient crypto-Satanic practices that descended from ancient Sumer and Babylon. To this day they still masquerade as just a minority ethno-religious group, but in reality, they are a race of demoniacs.

The second class demoniacs are those who surrendered themselves to demonic possession after the long torment of demonic oppression, they are those who began to enjoy and identify with the abominations their demons were telepathically projecting into their minds. These demoniacs in most cases can’t be saved because they surrendered themselves to the possession and allowed the demon to take over their lives, which invariably leads to the actuation of profane thoughts being projected into the mind of the victim, they become serial murderers and abusers, deranged molesters, homosexuals, and transsexuals. These demoniacs do the work of evil on earth as the average person is horrified by their behavior, once they were quickly brought to justice for their demonic behavior, but now they cry for tolerance as more and more people fall under demonic possession. The best way to release the victim of a second class demonic possession is to relieve them of their life, which depending on their karma will give their soul another chance to climb the ladder. But after they have habitually committed the profane a certain element of this is an act of will by the soul itself and fault can’t be placed entirely upon the demonic possession.

As for the third class demoniacs and the most rare, are those who were possessed while in the astral or by naively coming into contact with occult knowledge and practices that they were not ready for. Often this occurs to young people who are just past the age of innocence (after menarche and spermarche). During the age of innocence the karma of the child protects them from demonic attack, but the sexually active mind pulls the soul deeper into the demiurgic realm, which can lower their spiritual frequency enough for a spiritual parasite to become attracted to the adolescent. But these kinds of attacks can happen to adults who have been sheltered from the world and its evil if they begin to explore the world as an adult without having had proper guidance on these topics. This is why it must be stressed that knowledge of the occult world should not be denied to a child, but that they should be educated as to the reality of the paranormal and the very real dangers of left-hand path occultism. These types of possession are very rare, for the heavier the karmic debt of the soul the more likely it is that the body can be possessed. Though past life karma carries over into the next life and the karmic debt of the bloodline can also be a factor, hence the sins of the parent can affect the child.

In the case of a third class demoniac, only a bonafide holy man can exorcise a demon that has taken hold of someone who is relatively innocent. New priests or monks should not attempt to perform an exorcism without first going through the proper training, and after having maintained certain vows for a period of at least three years. The vow of celibacy (or chastity if married) is the most important vow, but dietary vows, vows of poverty, vows of humility, vows of honesty, and vows of devotion must also be kept by the holy man. Such a holy man must have renounced the passions to seek a holy life, not for his own sake but for the sake of those he loves. He must be accomplished in the art of self-mastery and have put a yoke on his animalistic desires so that he has not recently fallen into sinful acts. This is what is termed the “cleansing of the cup” in Aryanity so that the holy spirit of Omnis can flow through him without being corrupted. The pure spiritual energy of Omnis is like the blazing sun to a nocturnal creature, they will be compelled to flee from it. The holy man must have learned to enter into a state of ecstasis, and induce such a state in the presence of the demon. In cases of demonic obsession and oppression inducing an ecstatic state in the presence of the demon will also compel it to flee, but in cases of full demonic possession, the ecstatic state must be maintained longer and include the laying on of hands.

Generally, exorcists will recite prayers or mantras in combination with this ecstatic state or as a way of helping them to maintain this flow of positive energy while the demon attempts to horrify its victims as a means of transmuting this vital energy into a form of energy that it can feed off of. It is very important that the exorcist not only show no fear, but experience no fear, he must be so complete in his faith that no doubts exist in his mind that his faith and intentions are pure and that he is a worthy vessel of divine providence. This of course does not mean that the holy man is free from sin as it is literally impossible to be free from sin while existing bound to a physical body, just as it is impossible for a lotus to avoid the muck of the swamp when half of it exists underneath the swamp, rooted in mud, and just as a lotus plant must draw nutrients from the filthy muck of the swamp, it must transmute the rays of the sun into vital energy.

In the same way, an Aryan is rooted physically in this world of sin but must transmute the power of spiritual energy into what we call higher consciousness, in this way the Aryan soul blooms like the lotus from the swamp. Like the lotus, the more leaves we have above the level of the swamp to catch the rays, the more we will blossom, we must reach out with spiritual discipline beyond the world of the muck and maintain a majority of ourselves in cleanliness so that the light of the holy spirit of Omnis can reach us. The more of this spiritual light that we absorb the stronger we become; in this way is how one becomes a holy man, not by being free from sin, but by always maintaining a portion of one’s conscious mind on righteousness and staying devoted to the principles of righteousness. When the mind falls into sinful thoughts they must be tempered with the shame response before thoughts lead to actions.

When the holy man performs an exorcism, it may be simply within a home to exorcise a demonic oppression, thus clearing the home and the life of the victim, or to exorcise an actual physical possession. If bonafide possession is suspected the holy man must have others to assist him in restraining the demoniac and it is even preferred to have a team of exorcists to assist. The exorcism is the most effective if a member of the exorcism team has developed the power of the second sight, which gives the person the ability to see auras, spirits, and demons where others might only sense their presence. Upon the entrance of the holy man, the demon may hide or pretend it no longer lingers, but the holy man must be persistent in his prayers to reveal the demonic presence. Once its presence is revealed one must attempt to compel the demon to identify itself by name, though it may resist. If it identifies itself this gives one a name of power to help compel the demon to depart. The same name of power can be recited in the verses, or written on parchment and burned, the ashes of which can be combined with holy anointing oil and used to draw an equal armed cross on the forehead of the victim, symbolizing the power and authority of the Sun God as an avatar (incarnation) of Omnis over all Demoni.

Once the presence of the demon is revealed it will begin its attacks against the holy man and others in the vicinity, either telepathically or physically by using the possessed or even by telekinetic attacks such as hurling objects, biting, cutting, scratching, and hitting with etheric force. The demon will first attempt to attack him with the fear of death, but the holy man must not fear. Then the demon will attack him with temptations, but the holy man must not be tempted. Then the demon will attempt to attack him by slandering him and slandering the righteousness of Omnis and Christos. Neither Omnis nor Christos cares about the blasphemies of demons or demoniacs, and the demon knows this, but it is attempting to undermine the holy man by triggering a pride response or by triggering doubt. The holy man is only human after all and must be ever mindful of demonic attempts to attack his human weaknesses.

The energy channeled through the body of the holy man while in the ecstatic state can be projected toward the demonic entity. The polarity of pure holy energy is opposite to the energy that the demon feeds off of and to them its like being burnt with a holy fire. Burn them enough and they will flee, as to stay and persist in their attack will inevitably weaken them to the point that they can be completely destroyed, that is, they will experience the “second death” spoken of in revelations when Christos casts the evil souls into the lake of fire. During the demonic attacks, one must continually rebuke the demon and recite the verses of exorcism. The order and number in which these verses are recited are not important, what is more important is focusing on the meaning of the verses and maintaining ecstasis. Likewise, the length of time that is required to perform the exorcism is mutable and can range from a short time to days depending on multiple factors related to the karma of the victim and their family as well as the karma of the holy man. The verses are thus:

In the name of Christos the redeemer, I rebuke you denizen of the shadow realm. In the name of Omnis the All, I command you to depart from this place.

May you lurk in the shadows until the end of time, may you never be redeemed. May your home be the bowels of pigs and your family be the worms.

This child of the gods is not your host, and the Divine light has exposed you! Begone like Cancerian shadows at the equinox noon!

Oh Omnis, protect your child from this demonic interloper. May your holy light burn this shadow away and blot out its presence.

While these verses are being recited, the holy man may perform the laying on of hands or focus on the projection of spiritual energy toward the demonic presence. Also, the use of prayer beads may be employed to keep pace of the verses. Once the demon has finally departed it will end its attacks and release the victim. Often it will depart as if unable to look away, moving or “walking” backward, until it disappears back into the shadow realm. Prayers of thanks and forgiveness should be made and the home of the victim should be consecrated as holy ground so that the demon can not return while the victim is asleep.

-Aryan Angelic invocation (Angels Whispers)

The invocation of an angelic archetype or an ascended master into your life requires much dedication to the mystical path. Having obtained the guidance of an angelic guardian is a great boon to the seeker. But what must be established first is what an angel is and what it is not as this term has been commonly misused. Often people will assume that a relative who has passed on may linger and become their “guardian angel”. This is a false belief rooted in the spiritualist movement, which was a movement of charlatans who would conduct fake seances to allegedly summon the spirits of the dead. While the belief in disembodied “spirits” (souls) is rooted in genuine occult truths, spirits are not what they might seem when someone is experiencing a “haunting”.

A soul may linger for a short time after death due to an intense attachment to their former life such as a loved one, or dying a violent death where the perpetrator escapes justice. These lingering souls that refuse to move on can only do so for a limited period of time before their vital spiritual energy, some of which is static, begins to dissipate. If they refuse to pass on to another physical form for too long one of two things will happen, they will dissipate completely and their soul will suffer complete annihilation or the second death or they will become what the Eastern Aryans call a hungry ghost.

A hungry ghost is what results when a soul lingers too long due to their attachments to their former life, they essentially become a denizen of the shadow realm, when they must feed off of the energy of the living to continue their existence. In such cases, what made them human once becomes no more and they become a ravenous wraith seeking to haunt the living. Hence we must not wish this fate on any of our relatives, if one suspects that a relative lingers after death it is important to recite prayers of passing so that the disembodied soul may abandon their attachment to their former life.

The only other case in which a disembodied soul may linger beyond the point of passing into the next life is if the person had attained Gnosis in life, making a connection with the Primum Aeternum, and ascending. In this case, the ascended master after death can remain outside of a body for an indefinite amount of time since their soul is now being charged by the spiritual reservoir of the Primum Aeternum, and they no longer needs a body to generate the vital energy of the spiritual body. An ascended master after death is still bound to the laws of karma and must do the will of Omnis, which includes but is not limited to coming back to this world and taking a physical form.

Some may choose to take on a superior human form for the purpose of guiding others out of Samsara, or the eternal cycle of reincarnation within the illusory world, while others may choose to reincarnate into a much higher non-Human physical form. The Eastern Aryans called these higher beings “pleasure beings” as it was believed that some lived extremely long lives in comparison to humankind, never get ill, and live in utopian conditions. These alien beings have already gone through the process of spiritual and biological evolution that humankind is undergoing and eventually became races of intergalactic super-beings. This is the inevitable destiny of the Aryan race, but only after we are able to throw off the yoke of the Maledictans so that we no longer have to pull the weight of lesser hominids. This will occur during the millennial reign of the next Imperium when the fifth sub-race of Aryans transforms itself through eugenics programs into something that can no longer be called human but rather super-human or godlike.

The Ascended Master is a type of angelic being, but one who was once a Human or human-like creature, and through the process of spiritual evolution from life to life, eventually attained Gnosis and ascended. They are what we call the Humilis Angeli. Yet the high angels, like demons, are those who either never had physical bodies of their own, or incarnate in physical form temporarily and only to carry out the will of Omnis in the physical world, but their soul has always been residents of the Primum Aeternum; they are those who never fell into the Alterum Aeternum during the celestial war between the Demiurgus and Omnis. We call these high angels the Altum Angeli and associate them with certain archetypal principles, recognized by the mystery schools of our ancestors. Like demons, the high angels can possess a human body for a time, but only if certain criteria are met with the host body's genetic makeup.

Often our ancestors would call on them to take over their bodies to bestow upon them certain super-human abilities. Ancient Aryan war cults would often call upon their pantheon of warrior deities to assist them in their battle trances, while the priestesses of fertility cults would invoke the presence of fertility deities to bless the harvest, while still others, such as oracles would invoke the presence of higher emanations such as the sun god to bestow upon them the gift of prophecy. These archetypal deities recognized and worshiped by our ancestors are what we call the emanations of Omnis. Some of these emanations are high emanations like the Divus Pater and Divus Mater, and attempting to invoke them is not recommended, while the lower emanations such as the Humilis Angeli can be invoked only by the experienced mystical practitioner.

The process for invocation is to first begin daily devotionals to the angelic archetype or ascended master, whereby an icon for the archetype is designed and placed upon the private ritual altar. It must be noted that the icon of the chosen archetype must not replace the holy swastika, which is the sigil of Omnis and Its emanation as the Holy Son, ie the Sun God. The angelic icon is placed on the home altar in addition to the regular ritual items. The archetype must be prayed to and meditated upon daily, not the icon per se, the icon is only to assist in implanting the archetypal principle in one's mind. Once this seed is planted the prayer to the archetype feeds the seed and allows it to grow; over time one will begin to notice the presence of the angel or the ascended master at which time the ritual can be performed to make contact and to show one's devotion to it as a guardian or a tutelary spirit.

Prior to the ritual, one must design a sigil representing the angel or ascended master. Depending on one's religious background and affinity, this can range from rune binding the runes associated with the name of the Angeli or astrological symbol associated with the angelic archetype combined with the Latin name or a monogram of the name, or even the name written in one of the non-Hebraic magickal alphabets. These alphabets are depicted in the many occult works and they will not be made available here, but the Practicing Aryan is encouraged to study these alphabets and choose one best suited for their personal ritual work. Also, in planning the ritual one may take into account the movement of the planets, the position of the sun on the ecliptic, and the phase of the moon to determine the most portentous time for contact with the Angeli.

The ritual begins by lighting the censer to purify the ritual space of any negative energy brought in by oneself. The ritual space would have already been sanctified as holy ground previously when establishing the altar, yet the censer must be lit at every ritual to clear the space of any residual negative energy that may have been brought in by oneself or others who participate in the ritual and ceremony. Once the censer is lit and the smoke fills the ritual space, one must also light the white candle, or if outdoors a sacred lamp that won't be blown out with the wind where the flame is easily accessible. One will also fill the cup with holy water which will be used to douse any uncontrolled flame, and to later assist in cleaning the ashes from the bowl with a towel, then discarded after the ritual. The parchment that has the angelic sigil written upon it is then burned and its ashes are collected within a small bowl or pestle where it is combined with a few drops of the holy anointing oil. During the burning of the sigil one must recite the name of power of the chosen tutelary spirit as such (for the purpose of an example we will use Vindex the Champion who is the tutelary spirit of warriors):

“Oh Vindex! May Omnis compel you to accept my humble invitation”

Once the ashes are collected and combined with the anointing oil, the index finger of the right hand is then dabbed into the bowl and the oil is used to draw an equal armed cross on the forehead of the practitioner. If alone, the practitioner anoints him or herself, whereas if a group ritual, each participant would anoint each other starting with the most experienced member. The equal armed cross is symbolic of the authority of the Sun God as the avatar of Omnis, over all Angeli. Once the anointing is complete the participants will then sit cross-legged in front of the alter and recite the following verse as a mantra while focusing on the flame of the candle or lamp, and for added assistance in keeping pace with the verses it is recommended to use the Juga beads (If invoking any other Angeli than Vindex one must meditate on the nature of the archetype and design a short verse that is appropriate for said archetype like such):

“Vindex the Champion, lend me your courage, strength, and agility of mind, so I may do battle.”

The mantric verse one designs must have the name of the archetype or ascended master, what you wish to acquire from said Angeli, and the reason for the request. The verse must be short so that it can be easily repeated and meditated upon. The verse must be repeated a minimum of thirteen times, representing the signs of the zodiac including Ophiuchus; recite the verse slowly if necessary, take deep low breaths with the diaphragm pushing down to the belly with each verse. attempt to quiet and open your mind to the presence of the Angeli. One may begin to feel a warmth rising to one's face and the top of the head as the Vril energy or Prana begins to rise in the presence of the angel, this may also be accompanied by a presence of power and well-being. One may also begin to see the candle flame begin to fluctuate as if dancing. This is also the time when one must attempt to enter into ecstasis and connect with the universal energy of the Primum Aeternum via Sponsa Sapientis or the Bride of Wisdom. Once the presence of the Angel is felt one must not give in to astonishment and continue reciting the Mantric verse or even simply a shortened version giving thanks for the visitation by the angel. During this time the eyes must be closed and it is ideal to focus the eyes on the inside of the eyelids where one may begin to see flashes of light, that morph into geometric shapes. Continue to meditate and focus on the Mantric verse or the giving of thanks as such:

“Thank you Vindex for your visitation”

As you repeat this Mantric verse continue to focus your eyes on the inside of your eyelids and you may reach a level of consciousness that allows for images, sounds, and concepts to be transmitted to your mind. Spontaneous thoughts and feelings may arise as if from nowhere; likewise from this point on, even when not in meditation one may realize that they have acquired knowledge and understanding of things that they did not previously know or study. Often this spontaneous knowledge will simply be there when one awakens from sleep the next day as if downloaded into the brain during the dream state. This is due to the conscious archetype taking interest in the practitioner and fulfilling the request for personal transformation. In the case of Vindex, cowardice will be replaced with courage in all situations, self-doubt will be replaced with self-confidence, and laziness will be replaced with drive.

The other angelic archetypes and the ascended masters must be identified, studied, and cross-referenced with other deities and or angels/archangels, etc. study everything one comes across in regards to the chosen archetype and become a true devotee, though never let one's devotion to any particular archetype or ascended master overshadow one's devotion to Omnis the All. Always praise and hail Omnis for all archetypes and souls that emanate from Its singularity, the Primum Aeternum. Likewise, the ultimate attainment that a sentient being can acquire is union with the Divine super-ego, that is one's higher Divine self. It can take many lifetimes of spiritual practice to ascend to this level, but never forget that this is the ultimate goal, to ascend and realize one's own nature as once being amongst the heavenly hosts as a member of their ranks.

-Aryan Re-birthing Rite (Aryanhood Confirmation)

When an Aryan child is conceived it is a momentous occasion, which means the soul of a once-living man or woman has found its way back to the light of the spark of life. Often the rebirth of a transient soul into one's family can be a lost relative as souls are bound to choosing a life that is closest to their spiritual frequency. These spiritual frequencies are emitted according to the genetics of the new earthly vessel and are sensed by the transmigrating soul. The amount of time that elapses for the soul after death before they are flung back into a new life is indeterminate and varies from soul to soul from many thousands of years to nearly instantaneously. Where the soul in waiting resides during this time is a realm beyond spacetime that certain traditions call "limbo" or "purgatory". Limbo exists in between the shadow realm and our own realm of spacetime; limbo is not the "afterlife" per se but only where a soul exists in a sort of semi-conscious state as the time comes for the new body to be prepared. Ascended masters on the other hand exist in the Primum Aeternum and are fully conscious as they await instruction in choosing their next incarnation.

When the child is born the parents may not be able to determine who the former ego was of the soul which now inhabits the body of their precious child unless they are extremely sensitive people. Some parents of other family members close to the child may have dreams or visions of who the former ego of the soul is of the newborn child, but the only way to know is to enlist the abilities of a bonafide mystic, and even then the identity may be hidden for various reasons by Omnis, and the only sure way for the child to identify his or her past life is through their own mystical journey in exploring various occult practices from lucid dreaming, connecting with the Akashic Record, or hypnosis to induce past life regression.

In any case, the birth of a White Aryan child should be celebrated no matter the level of spiritual development of the soul. The Aryan re-birthing rite occurs after the child is born within the first three months of life. This is when the child is anointed as a pure-blooded Aryan, and his or her destiny is acknowledged by the family as being destined for eventual ascension from the world of the senses. During the day that this rite is celebrated, the family is invited to be present in witnessing the anointing, and a feast in honor of the new infant child is prepared by the mother and her female family members, while the men of the family help to care for the child and other children within the family unit.

Once the feast is prepared, and in the presence of the elder family members, the child is brought before the father by the mother and offered to Omnis as a vessel of Divine providence with the following words:

"Please Omnis, accept our child as a worthy vessel of your will upon this physical plane."

The father then uses holy anointing oil mixed with one part myrrh and nine parts olive oil and with his index finger smudges the equal armed cross upon the forehead of the infant and states the words:

"So mote it be, Amen"

This permanently marks the child as a child of Omnis, who now is a ward of Omnis and will be protected by Omnis in life and death, from the wiles of the Demiurgus. Upon the anointing, the family may then feast and celebrate the anointing of the new Aryan infant.

-Aryan Rite of Passage (Adulthood Confirmation)

The age of the Aryan rite of passage is determined by puberty. This does not mean that when menarche and spermarche begins that the child is instantly ready for sexual activity, this simply means that the body is going through the metamorphosis of puberty, and must be marked by the rite of passage. With Aryan girls the first menarche must be celebrated as the beginning of the process whereby she will one day become an Aryan mother, thus bringing more souls into an Aryan family so as to offer them up to Omnis as vessels of Divine providence. With boys the first signs of spermarche must be celebrated as the beginning of the process whereby he will one day become an Aryan father, thus accepting the role of provider and protector of not only his family but by extension his race.

When an Aryan girl has her first menstruation, it is the responsibility of the Aryan mother and other females of the family to throw her a coming-of-age celebration where the focus is on the values of chastity until marriage and Aryan motherhood. The mood should be celebratory but also serious as the transition to becoming an Aryan woman and eventual mother is of the most sacred roles within the family dynamic. The feminine rite of passage celebration can be accompanied by games and personal life stories concerning the struggles and rewards of womanhood as well as what will be expected of her to please her man. The young women must be given the sense that they are now entering the circle of womanhood, and have come to a new level in their lives, but be careful not to make the struggles of marriage and motherhood seem to outweigh the rewards as this could break the psyche of the young lady. The goal is to boost the self-esteem and grace of the young lady. The games for the celebration of the young lady's coming of age can range from balancing games to guessing games to crafting to cooking for the other female guests.

When an Aryan boy shows signs of puberty such as the deepening of the voice and the growth of facial hair, it is the responsibility of the Aryan father and other males of the family to throw him a coming-of-age celebration where the focus is on the values of hard work and Aryan fatherhood. The mood should be celebratory but also serious as the transition to becoming an Aryan man and eventual father is of the most important roles within the family dynamic. The masculine rite of passage celebration can be accompanied by trials of fire, tests of strength, and tests of courage as well as what will be expected of him as a husband. The young men who pass these trials must be congratulated and held in high esteem so as to build bonds with his tribe, but be careful to not make the trials too unrealistic as this could break the psyche of the young man. The goal is to boost the self-esteem and confidence of the young man. The trials of fire, tests of strength, and tests of courage for a young man coming of age can range from a mountain climbing, to a stone throwing, to arm wrestling, to tattooing.

-Aryan Last Rite (Passing Confirmation)

After the heart stops and an Aryan is pronounced clinically dead it is very important to follow the initial steps of death confirmation. If the death is a violent one, occurring while under surgery, or an unexpected death then the body must be collected and taken to a dark private place where the process of death can be completed. The full process of death can take hours or even days after the heart stops and brain activity ceases. The soul may linger attached to the corpse for a time in a state of horror as to the manner of death or simply because of the very act of death. During this time it is important to call upon an Aryan priest to come and help the Aryan soul pass to the next life or to witness the ascension of the Gnostic soul. If the death is expected soon then it is ideal to have the Aryan priest present to help the death along by easing the mind of the dying Aryan. In any event, the first act of the priest when he enters to perform the last rites of the dead, he must make sure the eyes are closed and must anoint the body with the equal armed cross on the forehead of the dead. This marks the body as property of Omnis and his incarnation as the holy sun god Christos.

Once clinical death occurs there is a simple way to determine if the soul has ascended and that is if the crown of the head is warm or even hot while the feet and hands of the corpse will be cold. The heat of the crown vortex is the connection of the spiritual body to the Primum Aeternum and indicates the departure of the soul through the crown vortex. During normal death, the soul leaves the body through the sacral vortex or sometimes the heart vortex, both of which cause a general cooling of all of the extremities including the head, and the retention of core temperature within these locations for longer. The soul will still be attached to the body for a period of time after death so it is very important to not cause the body more harm. For this reason, the Aryan Church does not advocate for organ donation unless the organ donor understands that clinical death is not full biological or brain death which is when the organs must be harvested so that they are viable. The only other scenario is when the organ is donated by a living person in cases where one can survive with only one of two functioning organs like in the case of kidney donations.

Even after brain death, the soul is still semi-conscious as if in a dream state and this is when the process begins by which the silver cord begins to detach from the body. It is important for the Aryan priest during this time to determine which vortex the soul is departing the body from, and in the rare case of an ascension, prayers to Omnis and praising the ascended master are in order. The ascended master may even linger simply to show delight to the audience of his or her death before departing fully to the Primum Aeternum for instructions regarding the next life. The Aryan priest must reassure the family and respected guests that this is a celebratory time and not to mourn, but to transmute the sadness at the master's passing into joy for his or her ascent to the heavenly realm. The prayer of ascension is as such:

“Oh great ascended master, praise be to your name, we rejoice in your passing as you depart to rejoin the ranks of the angels! May you return one day to help guide worthy souls out of perdition.”

As for the equally rare heart vortex departure, the silver cord is made stronger by such connections with the heart vortex and the process of departure can take up to three days, but usually no longer than one day, while the soul in waiting remains more aware of the events of his or her death. This is usually a person with a psychic soul who has made great spiritual advancements in life yet was still unable to fully ascend. In such cases, it is important to protect the soul from demonic attack by consecrating the place of death as one would a ritual space to keep the demonic influences out. Upon death one of the first things that occur to a standard animal of psychic souls is that the demons of the air begin their spiritual attacks on the soul causing it to flee to the closest available body. But for those who are in the process of transmutation from a psychic soul to a Gnostic one they may have the opportunity to exist in Limbo until a proper body is available for them that will be conducive to their higher spiritual frequency.

It is the goal of the Aryan priest to protect the lingering soul from demonic attack long enough for the lingering soul to detach from the body and transcend to Limbo where it will await a proper body. The place where the corpse is to be stored during this process must be willing to keep the corpse for up to three days and nights while the priest and family members say prayers to Omnis and compel the soul to leave the corpse to transcend to the realm of Limbo. While in Limbo the karma of the soul is weighed according to the vibration of the soul where it is designated for a certain type of bodily vessel that is rarer than the common people. Although the soul is semi-conscious and aware of its own death and existence in Limbo, it is not aware of the passage of time, and the time that elapses from death to rebirth may be days to decades. In the case of ascended masters, this is also true but can even span the length of centuries or even millennia.

If the Aryan priest suspects that the soul is departing through either the heart vortex or the sacral vortex then recitation of prayer under candlelight in the presence of the corpse is recommended, while maintaining the censer burning frankincense to keep the room cleansed of negative energy. Likewise, the sprinkling of salt around the corners of the room will help to repel the demonic scavengers who wish to feed off of the vulnerable energy of the soul in waiting. In the case of the heart vortex departure, the process generally takes longer and the priest must be sensitive enough to determine when the soul has departed for Limbo. Whereas in the case of the sacral vortex departure the process will only take anywhere from one hour to one day, and the soul does not wait in Limbo. The prayers that must be recited after the lighting of the censer and the sprinkling of salt around the corpse are thus:

“Oh wayward soul, may you accept a new life and leave this old one as a hermit crab chooses a new shell”

“Leave your old life behind, and embrace a life anew, where you will have another chance to fulfill your destiny”

The goal of the prayers and the consecration is to protect the soul from demonic attack until they are ready to depart. Likewise, it is important to protect the soul from demonic attack so that the soul does not become a hungry ghost. If the death occurs in secret and it takes any amount of time to discover the corpse then the demons will have already done their work. If the priest is called to a recently deceased corpse and senses that the soul has not passed and also senses a demonic presence, then an exorcism of the space is called for. If too much time has elapsed and the demons make it to the soul first they will have likely frightened the soul into its next physical form or tormented it into the shadow realm, which is something we wish to prevent if at all possible.

Often when death occurs at a hospital and without the proper performance of last rites, the soul of the dead will transmigrate into an unsuspecting expectant mother visiting her obstetrician. The fetus does not have a soul upon conception, but simply the spark of life, just as a plant does not have what we call a soul but is still alive. Soul means consciousness and the human body is not ready to receive a transmigrating soul until around half of a lunar year after conception. This is the time frame in which a soul in waiting will be implanted into a new human life form and the fetus will become conscious. This fact has been a subject of controversy in many religions as to when a fetus is considered a “life” or a “human”. Let it be settled here that the fetus is a life at conception when the first spark of life occurs when the sperm fertilizes the egg and it splits, but the fetus is not technically a human with a soul until around six months gestation, and this varies.

With this said it is also important to make mention of what the Aryan priest should do when there is a stillbirth or miscarriage. Infant loss is one of the most painful events an Aryan can experience and endure. It is a tragedy like no other and it is important for the suffering family to realize that it is not the will of Omnis to make you suffer, nor to cause senseless tragedy. These things occur because of the Demiurgus. When an infant dies in the womb before the age of six and a half lunar months (one hundred and eighty-two days), neither the re-birthing rite nor last rites must be performed and the family must understand that the fetus, although still very tragic did not suffer, due to the absence of consciousness. After the lunar cycle, on the other hand, both the re-birthing rite and the last rites must be performed, albeit modified. When the infant's body has been removed from the mother's womb, no matter the condition of the body, the father or the priest must anoint the forehead of the infant, marking him or her as a child of Omnis. From this, the remaining last rights should be performed.

After the process of death had been completed and the soul no longer lingers, the family can begin preparing for the funeral. How the funeral is conducted and how the corpse is prepared for burial is completely the choice of the family and can range from cremation on a funeral pyre, to burial of the body or interment within a mausoleum, to mummification as our ancient Atlantean ancestors did. How the preparation of the corpse and funeral is conducted should ultimately be the choice of the deceased as it is written in his or her will, but in lieu of a will, the decision rests upon the surviving family members. Though an Aryan funeral should be a joyous occasion and not one characterized by melancholy for the soul of the Practicing Aryan will surely transcend the lower conditions of one's previous life to become a new life filled with even greater potential.

The loved ones of the deceased, especially the spouse can say prayers to Omnis to help guide his or her soul back to their spouse in the next life if it is the will of Omnis. Soulmates are a very real phenomenon, often two souls resonate with a harmonic frequency, and they are pulled closer to each other in their lives via the law of attraction when a portion of one's conscious mind has this notion implanted in their daily thoughts. Synchronicities will occur in life that will eventually bring the two soulmates together. Soulmates have an attachment to each other that transcends simple physical attachments, and it's important for the surviving spouse of the deceased soulmate to let go of the soul of their spouse after death lest they be compelled to linger past their allotted time, which puts the soul in danger of becoming a hungry ghost. The surviving family must find comfort in the fact that they may meet again in the next life.

Conclusion:

Hence concludes the first catechism of the Aryan Church. More teachings will present themselves in the years, decades, and centuries to come. For now, this catechism and the manifesto will serve as a foundation for building a physical church organization within the world. But let us never forget that the Aryan Church is not of this world. As Christos said, "My kingdom is not of this world", and so too is our Church, it is the continuation of the ancient archetypal religion of the cosmos and Aryans are its stewards. Its astro-theological principles are written in the very heavens and play out in perfect synchronicity, from celestial age to celestial age. Those of us who have the eyes to see recognize the secret cipher in the heavens, and we have learned the Divine language of Omnis. With every acknowledgment of synchronicity in our lives that give us instructions on how to live, and that we accept the tutelage of, the more we come to recognize the signs.

Follow the signs of Omnis, allow It to give you Divine guidance, even if you don't understand where the signs lead, you will soon enough if you trust in your intuitive Aryan feelings to guide you toward the best destiny allotted for you by the One and the All. As practicing Aryans we must endeavor to make every day a holy rite, starting with the ritual of prayer and thanks upon waking, meditation when walking and working, prayer at every meal, giving thanks for our enlightenment as well as asking forgiveness for the simple act of having to participate in this fundamentally corrupt world, then finally prayer at bed time asking for protection from demonic and enemy attack while sleeping. Even in sleep we must endeavor to harness our innate Aryan psychic abilities and master the ancient power of dream divination, and astral travel, which will help us to come into contact with higher benevolent intelligences.

This is the nature of the Aryan, we naturally have access to and the highest potential to develop psychic abilities, which we must use to bring us in alignment with the Divine in service to the will of Omnis. We also are the only race with the true knowledge of self that allows us the realization of our nature as immortal souls and not as just a living being with one life, but rather our particular lives are a link in a nearly endless chain that spans the eons. Aryans are the very highest expression of this eons old battle against the Demiurge to break free of the biological limitations of our flesh prison. Never allow yourself to forget the profound knowledge and realizations that you have come into contact with. May Aryanity and Omnis guide you toward a prosperous future for yourself, your loved ones, and your race.

But always remember the true nature of this world as a construct designed to facilitate the suffering of lower souls. It takes detachment from the results of desires to escape the suffering. This may seem impossible for some but it's essential for the Aryan mystic. One may say to themselves, "if suffering is inevitable then why bother with life?" this nihilistic notion does not take into consideration that we are here for a reason, not everyone may know what this reason is, but most can agree that there is a reason because its a self-evident truth, just as the existence of a Divine creator is self-evident. As enlightened beings we must still perform the tasks of the living; we must still eat and kill to survive, we must still birth and raise children with love and kindness without expecting a reward, and we must still strive to make life better for our progeny even if it means suffering and dying to do so.

The impulse to survive and thrive is not a desire so much as an instinct encoded into our very genetics that came about over millions of years of evolution; who are we to go against our very nature? To do so is blasphemy against ourselves, our ancestors, and Omnis. Those self-flagellating and pathologically altruistic Whites, who wallow in their White guilt complex are truly nihilistic, and have lost the instinct of survival, hence they deserve to succumb to the enemies of the White race. Humbly pursuing one's survival needs and those of one's family, or by extension one's race is not a selfish or banal desire such as meaningless sins like gluttony, or greed, etc. Let no one ever trick you with Jewish logical fallacies into nihilism. What one can accomplish in life is far more than what they can accomplish in death, though there is a time when giving one's life in service to their race is necessary. This is the ultimate sacrifice, and the decision to put one's life in danger or engage in battle against our enemies should never be taken lightly in spite of the honor of such a sacrifice.

War, struggle, and suffering is the nature of this world and always will be. The form in which this struggle comes depends on our priorities as a race. If it is our priority to please and pacify the savage races on this planet then we must lie to ourselves, and waste our time and resources making them feel "equal" to us. We will continue to struggle with their jealousy and hatred toward us for being higher on the evolutionary ladder; we will suffer their savage violence, rape of our women, and anarchist race riots. Meanwhile we can use that time and resources struggling to build the greatest civilizations the world has ever witnessed, conquering the vast reaches of space, and discovering new technologies to facilitate our adventurous spirit. But to do this we must completely separate ourselves from those who keep us mired in a stagnate state, and now even threaten our very existence.

Aryanity gives us the knowledge and tools we need as a race to conquer the problems of the post-modern era. Not just the tools, but also the prophetic vision of what is still possible on our timeline, and not just possible, but the most probable outcome as White Aryans are already rebelling against the conditions of their subjugation under the Jewish occupation of Western civilization. Share Aryanity with all Whites who have the instinct to realize that our civilization is living a lie; share Aryanity with White Aryans who recognize the racial problem but simply don't know what to do; share Aryanity with White Aryans who need hope, hope that it won't be like this forever, and that there is a way out of the post-modern world of shame and degradation they suffer. It may take decades and in fact centuries to completely recover from the social disease that plagues Western civilization. But understand that this disease is terminal, the old civilization must die for the parasites that feed off of it to also die. From the ashes of the old institutions that formed Western civilization a new civilization will rise like a mighty Phoenix that will live a thousand years.

Hail the Tertium Imperium! Hail Omnis! Hail Aryanity! And hail the new dawn!
